If War Does Come—
Japan Will Be Ready.
Balbo In Europe.
Florida Goes Wet.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

DR. EDIE, formerly professor of Finance at the University of Chicago, says Europe is worrying "about gold and about war." "The French talk about 1935" as a time when war with Germany might come.

The French know what inflation means. Their franc was officially reduced in value by 80 per cent, which is as though our dollar should suddenly be cut from a hundred cents to twenty cents. Mr. Edie says there will be "bloodshed in Paris if the franc falls again."

IF THE predicted war should come in 1935 between France and Germany, which seems improbable in view of the four-power treaty, it would be savage and ruthless.

Knowing that, this time, they would have no help from England, which could not conscript its men if it chose, or from Russia, which is busy with its own affairs, or from the United States, which has taken for its motto "Once was enough," the French would strike instantly through the air with their 5,000 war planes carrying poison gas and explosives for the quickest possible results.

A few hours after the first hostile movement by Hitler, thousands of French planes would be dropping death on Berlin and other big German cities. And German planes less numerous would be bombarding Paris.

The world has never seen or thought of such a war as the next one will be, if it must come.

YESTERDAY, fifteen million Japanese in Tokio and surrounding districts watched a sham battle concerned with the capture and defense of Tokio. There were three attacks by roaring airplanes; stretcher bearers with gas masks carried wounded and supposed gas victims to emergency hospitals.

The "spiritual education of the people" was the purpose of the demonstration, planned so that in case of real war Tokio should not be taken by surprise.

IN CASE of real war, populations of our big cities would be taken by surprise, decidedly. The majority of Americans have never seen a gas mask, and this dangerously backward country is spending just now more than seventy million dollars to "modernize" worthless large-sized battleships that would have to hide in war.

The millions wasted on modernizing these archaic ships would give this country an air fleet and submarine fleet worth while.

GEN. BALBO, leader of Mussolini's air armada, was back in Europe yesterday, flying from the Azores to Lisbon, 1,200 miles, in seven hours, better than 170 miles an hour. He returned with twenty-three of the twenty-five planes with which he left Italy. One plane was disabled, and one man died in the Azores.

The remaining twenty-three of the twenty-five that started will, doubtless, arrive safely at their Italian starting point, having flown in regular formation through fogs, clouds, high winds and rain, by the northern route to Chicago and New York, and by the southern, Azores, route home.

THERE IS a difference between the French and the American way of rewarding good fliers. When an American flies around the world in seven days New York gives him a ride up Broadway, and as much ticker tape as happens to fall into his open automobile. The mayor shakes hands with him, and then is told to "run along." If he gets a job in a moving picture theater, well and good.

The two French fliers that have broken the world's straight-line distance flight record will receive one million francs in cash. And that is a good deal of money in Paris.

MR. FARLEY, Postmaster General, predicts that 36 states will have voted to repeal prohibition before the first day of 1934. Yesterday, Arizona, youngest state in the Union, formerly bone dry, voted three to one to repeal prohibition. The vote, 34,389 for repeal, 10,147 against it. Arizona is the twenty-first consecutive state to vote against prohibition.

COL. FRANK B. SHUTTS, owner of the Miami Herald, telling the world that New York is hotter in July than Miami, also says that Florida will certainly vote to repeal prohibition, "not so much to bring back alcohol, there is no lack of that, as to get rid of crime."

Col. Shutts calls attention to the fact that there is no kidnaping in Florida, where the penalty is death, and would be applied enthusiastically to everybody even remotely connected with a kidnaping enterprise. If, as in the case of the man who shot at President Roosevelt, and was executed, insanity is suggested, Florida, according to Col. Shutts, would reply:

"This is one state in which it is not safe for insanity, or pretended insanity, to obey any criminal impulse.

FASHION, planned to make women buy new clothes, will have dresses extremely tight in front, very loose behind, emphasizing the rear part of the dress, and bringing back the ancient "bustle."

If you are too young to have seen a bustle, imagine four or five toy balloons, covered with cloth, fastened to the back of the dress, just below the waist. That is the bustle.

YOU WONDER why women should ever have adopted the

LAUNDRYMAN ENDS LIFE IN OFFICE

NRA Worries Blamed For Suicide of Firm President

Worries arising from requirements of the National Recovery Act caused Edward H. Caswell, 62, president of Pittsburgh Laundry, Inc., to shoot and kill himself today, according to business associates.

His body was found slumped over the desk in the laundry in Wyandotte street at Fifth avenue shortly after he entered the office.

"He worried a great deal about his health, and he also had the additional worry due to the National Recovery Act which we are to put in force in the laundry shortly."

Zeck said a great deal of adjustment in the working force was necessary under the code governing the business. Caswell was to have attended a meeting to discuss the problems this afternoon.

EARLY AT OFFICE

The laundry head entered his office at 9:30 a. m., a half hour earlier than usual. Benjamin Mann, treasurer of the company, said Caswell asked for his mail. Miss Martha Elborne, a clerk, heard a shot a short time later, but was not alarmed.

Miss Blodwen Owens, another clerk, found the body 10 minutes later when she entered the office with a package of laundry. Caswell was slumped over his desk, a revolver on the floor. He was shot once in the head.

Mr. Caswell had been in the laundry business here for many years. He was married, but had no children. His home was in the Bayard apartments, Bayard street.

BUSINESS WORRIES

Mann said he told Caswell yesterday about the laundry code meeting and Caswell said:

"All right."

At the state inquiry into working conditions here several weeks ago, Mann appeared before the commission and told of business difficulties besetting the firm. He said at that time the company was two weeks behind in wages and salaries due to the closing of a bank and operating losses.

Salesman Found Dead On Bench in Park

A bullet wound in his mouth and a revolver in his lap, the body of Samuel B. Gardner, 54, of 919 Ross avenue, Wilkinsburg, was found last night on a bench in Frick Park, near the Forbes street entrance.

The body was found by R. P. MacIntyre, of 525 Sheridan avenue, who summoned Special Patrolman Thomas Conley. Gardner, a salesman, was said to have been worrying over financial difficulties.

Druggist's Suicide Laid to Worries

Business worries were blamed today for the death of Marcus Safier, 52, druggist, of 2259 Shady avenue, entered on the coroner's records today as suicide.

Deputy Coroner Bernard McTighe reported the dead man showed evidences of having swallowed poison. A bottle that had contained poison was found outside his window.

On several occasions Safier, according to the deputy's investigation, had remarked.

"It would have been better if President Hoover had been elected and all could die together."

Hoover 59 Today, Sees No Visitors

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Former President Herbert Hoover is "not at home" to callers today—his fifty-ninth birthday.

The announcement was made by a secretary who intimated the former President and his wife planned to observe the day by themselves. Their two sons, Herbert, Jr., and Allan, are in Southern California.

Husband's Slayer Breaks

The calm that settled over Mrs. Meta Miller once she had surrendered to the law for the killing of her husband deserted her today as she confessed to the killing. She collapsed.

The silent, embittered mother of five children swayed, fell to the floor of the Bertillon room in Central Police Station as she was being finger-printed.

A half hour later she was marched into Morals Court, where Magistrate Jones asked her:

"You have heard the officers testify. Is it true that you shot and killed your husband?"

ADMITS SHOOTING

A weak, almost inaudible voice answered:

"Yes, sir."

She was turned over to the Coroner to face a murder charge, and was committed to jail pending the inquest. Later she asked to attend her husband's funeral and was refused.

Tired, nervous and hungry, she has refused food since yesterday morning when she interrupted the breakfast of her husband, Fred Miller, 61, to shoot him dead in the basement kitchen of their home at 4315½ Stanley street.

SPURNS DAUGHTER

She refused, too, the embraces of her daughter, Gertrude Wright, 19, who has denied causing the quarrels that led to the shooting.

Gertrude, daughter by Mrs. Miller's first marriage, asked to see her mother in the police station. Mrs. Miller, taken from her cell, sat silent as her daughter embraced her and pleaded:

"Mother, you know I didn't do anything like that."

Not over her did her stepfather and mother quarrel, but over other women, Gertrude explained. She denied that Miller, who for many years was a fire-

TURNER SLATED POSTMASTER

William M. Turner, burgess of Wilkinsburg, today was recommended by Joseph F. Guffey for appointment as postmaster of Pittsburgh.

The recommendation was made in Washington to Postmaster General James A. Farley.

James B. Anderson, the present postmaster, has a year and a half to serve under his original appointment.

Turner, a life-long Democrat in Wilkinsburg, a Republican stronghold, received the news at his flower store, 809 Penn avenue, today. For 16 years before becoming Burgess he was a member of the Borough Council.

He said:

"It is a pleasant reward."

The opening battle of the three-game series between the Pittsburgh Pirates and Chicago Cubs, scheduled at Forbes Field this afternoon, was called off on account of rain.

CUBA PUSHES MACHADO OUSTER

Roosevelt Waits Reply To Peace Overtures In War-Torn Isle

HAVANA, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—The question whether President Machado shall resign his post to bring peace to Cuba, now under a formally declared state of war as the result of the menace of revolution, was placed today before the National Executive Committee of Gen. Machado's Liberal party.

Tho committee met to consider the formula of peace presented by United States Ambassador Sumner Welles, acting as mediator in the conflict between the Machado supporters and the opposition.

This formula entails the withdrawal of Machado to make way for a president approved by all parties.

Differences within the parties over the mediation program widened as the Liberal conference got under way, and it appeared possible that the old party lines would be completely obliterated.

STRIKE CONTINUES

Meanwhile, the general strike, which brought the conflict over Machado to a head, continued unbroken despite the efforts and expectations of the government.

In Santiago the military supervisor issued an edict ordering all stores to reopen within five days. Shopkeepers disobeying, the edict said, would be considered as revolutionaries.

Military forces controlled the entire island under decree of President Machado, who said the general strike, paralyzing industry and trade, had given "enemies of the public peace" a chance to "create a revolutionary state in the country."

Conflicting and unyielding attitudes of numerous elements involved in the growing crisis increased the public tension. Machado has been deaf to suggestions that he and his Secretary of State, Orestes Ferrara, resign.

The declaration of a state of war came as the administration's answer to the suggestion of mediators that Machado and Ferrara

Woman Hurt By Fall in Sewer

When the iron lid of a sewer opening on Woodland avenue, near California avenue, became dislodged, Mrs. Albert C. Beck, 35, of 1510 Woodland avenue, fell into the opening and suffered injuries to the arms, legs and side.

Neighbors hearing the woman's screams extricated her. She was taken to the home of Joseph Leson, 28 Woodland avenue, where she was attended by Dr. S. C. McCorkle.

Mrs. Beck explained she stepped on the iron bed, which was in two parts, and it dropped. She fell, but was saved from falling further when her leg was wedged against the side.

LEWIS ASKS 30-HOUR PIT WEEK

Mine Union Chief Also Demands $5 Basic Wage

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, appealed for a 30-hour work week and a $5 daily basic wage as hearings on a proposed code for the coal industry progressed today.

At the same time Lewis charged that powerful financial and industrial interests were attempting to wreck the national recovery program.

'ONLY WAY OUT'

Lewis asserted that the NRA offers the only way out of the depression.

Adoption of a general code for the coal industry was urged by operators from a dozen states as the hearings remained deadlocked over the conflicting labor provisions.

The general code, calling for a $5 basic wage in the mines, was presented by George B. Harrington, of Chicago, a major independent operator in the Illinois and West Virginia fields.

Harrington explained that it was drafted jointly by mine owners "representing a substantial proportion of the nation's total tonnage," and by the United Mine Workers of America.

In its labor provisions and its plan for equal representation of operators and miners on an industrial control board it was sharply in conflict with the code urged by the great Appalachian and Northern Coal Associations.

The Appalachian and Northern code would retain the company union and deny to the miners and the NRA a voice in the control of the industry.

NATIONWIDE CODE

Harrington asserted:

"Only by approval of a nationwide code can abuses and unfair practices be removed from the coal industry and the purposes of the NRA carried out.

"Many of the ills of the industry result from the compe-

Wilkinsburg Bank Nears Stock Goal

All except $14,250 of the $250,000 stock necessary to be sold for reorganization of the First National Bank of Wilkinsburg has been disposed of, J. C. McQuiston, chairman of publicity for the depositors' committee, announced today.

The remainder will be sold within a week or 10 days he predicted, clearing the way for reopening of the bank, now in hands of a conservator.

Peggy Hopkins Joyce Eyeing Polo Player

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Peggy Hopkins Joyce is back in town, this time with an announcement she wants to marry a polo player.

In 1926, when she was divorced from her latest husband, she said that she'd probably remarry some day. She's here to do another movie.

Jean Malin in Death Plunge; Actress Hurt

VENICE, Cal., Aug. 10.—(INS.)—Jean Malin, noted actor and master of ceremonies in New York and Hollywood night clubs, was killed, and a beautiful screen and stage actress, Patsy Kelly, was seriously injured today when Malin's car plunged from the Venice pier.

The machine settled into four feet of water.

Miss Kelly, 22, described as having been brought to the coast from New York by a major movie producer, was removed unconscious, but a cursory examination disclosed no broken bones. A roommate of Malin's, Jimmy Forlenza, suffered a fractured collarbone.

His appearance at the cafe last night had been billed, ironically enough, as "the last night of Jean Malin." He was to have appeared next at Grauman's famous Chinese Theater in Hollywood.

Malin, driving home, is believed to have become confused and backed off the pier. He was pinned under the wheel.

Malin was a graduate of a Greenwich Village cabaret and starred in the floor show at the notorious Abbey Club in New York when it was wrecked by bullets in a gangster war three years ago.

Malin specialized in female impersonations. Several times he was cautioned by police for the nature of his performances.

BOGUS MONEY RING RAIDED

United States secret service agents and city detectives this afternoon moved to surround what they termed one of the largest counterfeit rings ever known to operate in Pittsburgh. Already $80,000 in spurious bills have been "floated" in the tri-state district by the band, and one alleged member is under arrest, according to City Detective Walter Monaghan.

A squad of federal and city operatives drove to the plant of the counterfeiters, "somewhere in the country," late this afternoon, without divulging its location.

Penn J. Spangler, 40, of 7144 Upland street, East Liberty, was arrested last night by the investigators, Monaghan disclosed. He is accused of being the printer for the gang and was carrying 140 new $10 bills when arrested, according to Monaghan.

Public Utilities Ordered Under Code Agreement

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—The Recovery Administration today revealed a ruling whereby all privately-owned utilities—whether controlled by the state in which they are located or not—must come under its wage and work time supervision.

This matter emerged as the dominant development of a day filled with continued hearings on codes proposed for the coal and other industries, while Administrator Hugh S. Johnson awaited replies from retailers and grocers to his ultimatum of yesterday that store operating hours must not be reduced to avoid having to hire new workers.

Writing the speech which he will deliver in Baltimore tonight, the Administrator was said by his aides to have received no word from the spokesmen for thousands of stores affected by the wage and hour agreement approved for them.

LARGEST GROUP

The retailers and grocers, employing more than 5,000,000, are the largest group yet brought under the NRA's modified presidential re-employment agreement and their compliance with the terms laid down by the administration is being watched closely by officials.

As to the future of public utilities under the re-employment program, Col. L. G. Wilson, exe-

U. S. Steel Orders Fall 86,546 Tons

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corporation decreased 86,546 tons in July to a total of 2,020,125 tons, the corporation announced today. This compares with a June increase in backlog of 176,856 tons, which was the largest reported since early in 1930.

BANKER FAINTS AT HEARING

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—(INS.)—John H. Waters, 74, president of the United States National Bank, Johnstown, Pa., collapsed today while pleading at a hearing that his bank be reopened on the basis of 75 cents on the dollar.

The hearing was being held in the reorganization division of the office of the Comptroller of the Currency. Reopening of the bank on any but a 100 per cent basis was being fought by "Eddie" McCloskey, Mayor of Johnstown.

The office of the Comptroller of the Currency had sanctioned reopening of the bank on a restricted basis and the hearing was called on demand of the Mayor.

The latter claimed that the $3,373,000 tied up in slow loans could be collected and the bank opened on a 100 per cent basis.

Waters was taken to Emergency Hospital in an unconscious condition and it was said there his condition was serious.

Rum Agents Stay on Job But There Isn't Any

Although the enforcement arm of the Federal Prohibition Bureau passed out of existence at midnight, Deputy Administrator Robert Krause in charge of this area and 44 employes reported as usual today at their headquarters in the House Building.

Krause received a telegram from John D. Pennington, dry czar in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware, to carry on until further notice.

The plan is to merge the dry enforcement employes with the bureau of investigation, Department of Justice.

C. D. McKean, in charge of the Bureau of Investigation here, said his early mail contained no instructions from Washington regarding absorption of the prohibition unit here.

Under terms of all government leases, it is said, the government may cancel its lease of the dry headquarters on 30 days' notice.

NRA ACTS TO MAKE GOOD PROMISES TO MINE STRIKERS

PITS WITHOUT SCALES TO BE REPORTED

Western Penna. Strike Dwindles as Men Swarm Back

The National Recovery administration moved with dispatch today to see that the promises that induced striking miners to return to the pits are fulfilled.

Dispatches from Washington said the NRA had been advised some mines are not equipped with scales. In the strike settlement, the miners were promised that they might choose their own checkweighman at the mine scales.

Assistant Administrator Edward F. McGrady issued an order that officials of all union locals inform him when mines are not equipped with scales.

STRIKE DWINDLES

The strike today had dwindled until virtually every mine in Western Pennsylvania had resumed operations. Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation employes went back to work this morning and Pittsburgh Coal Company mines resumed.

Two mines of the National Mining Company, a United States Steel subsidiary, near Bridgeville, were idle because the miners insisted on receiving official notice from Washington on the new regulations dealing with checkweighmen.

President Roosevelt's arbitration board yesterday ruled that checkweighmen of the H. C. Frick Coke Company, also a United States Steel subsidiary, are to be elected at the entrance of the mines.

EXTEND RULES

The regulations were extended today to include the Pittsburgh Coal Company.

The board's rules for electing checkweighmen at the mine entrances were posted today at several workings. The men were content to await the outcome of the coal code hearings in Washington on the issue of recognition of the United Mine Workers of America.

National Guardsmen stayed in camp and State Police were in their barracks in the Connellsville coke region, where they have been on patrol since the state took a hand in that area.

As an aftermath of the violence in Fayette County, 16 pickets were being held for court under $500 bond each.

Martin F. Ryan, so-called insurgent leader in Fayette County, waived hearing this morning on riot and assault charges before Alderman Matt Allen and was held on $500 bond for the September session of the grand jury.

Information against Ryan was made by John C. Schucker, of Redstone Township. Schucker alleged Ryan led a group of strikers who attacked him in his automobile near Grindstone July 25.

BOARD TAKES UP 2 STRIKES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Harmony in industry through the settlement of labor disputes was sought earnestly today by the National Recovery Administration.

From apparent success in settling a coal strike discord at Grindstone, Pa., President Roosevelt's national labor board turned to two more Pennsylvania arguments between employer and workers.

The arbitration officials called before them today employers and employes in the Reading Pa., hosiery strike. Dr. Leo Wolman, acting chairman of the labor board, also intended to bring his organization into action on another front, the Pottsville, Pa., shirt mill controversy.

The hosiery dispute was fixed for its hearing here today, and the shirt trouble set for Friday.

Jail Fugitive Slain By Missouri Posse

IRONTON, Mo., Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Ray Probst, 30, of Elvins, was shot to death yesterday in a gun battle with Sheriff Roy E. Presnell and four deputies.

The shooting took place at a farmhouse three miles southwest of Iron Mountain, where the officers went to arrest Probst and Joe Downs, 53, who escaped jail at Farmington a year ago February. Downs escaped.

'Four-Minute Men' Here To Aid NRA Campaign

More Firms Enroll Under Code, Add To Payrolls

Emulating the Liberty Loan drives, a corps of "four-minute men" will advance the President's re-employment campaign in Pittsburgh. Under the command of Samuel Harden Church, chairman of the speakers' committee of the general campaign committee, members of the corps will speak at meetings in the interest of NRA.

The number of NRA signers in the Pittsburgh postal district today reached 10,560, with 651 new concerns pledging support yesterday, according to Postmaster James B. Anderson.

BAKERS TO SIGN

Pittsburgh bakers may sign a blanket code substituting wage and hour provisions of the food and grocery code pending submission and approval of the national bakery code, according to a telegram from NRA received by Frank C. Harper, general secretary of the campaign committee here. He also announced that the Manufacturing Furriers Association of Pittsburgh, the Association of Typothetae of the Pittsburgh District and the Ice Publicity Association of Allegheny County have adopted the blanket code.

Signers of either the blanket agreement or trade codes, affecting thousands of Pittsburgh employes, include the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, Armour & Co., Swift & Co. and the Cruikshank Brothers' Company.

WESTINGHOUSE IN LINE

F. A. Merrick, president of Westinghouse, said:

"All works and offices of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company and subsidiaries will, dating from August 15, operate under the provisions of the National Recovery Act which at that date becomes effective for the electrical manufacturing industry."

Fifteen employes have been added to the payroll of the Cruikshank Brothers' Company in line with the re-employment agreement.

PINCHOT URGES LABOR PEACE

HARRISBURG, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Gov. Pinchot today appealed for the substitution of "conference" for "conflict" in settling the widespread strikes in Pennsylvania.

By a proclamation issued from his summer home at Milford, the Governor called on employers and workers to "co-operate with the President of the United States by avoiding strikes, lockouts and all aggressive action, by keeping the work going and by submitting all questions at issue to the President's (labor peace) board without delay." He said:

"In particular, I urge that all differences be laid aside and every hostile action be suspended while the board is settling a dispute.. Let conference take the place of conflict, and let labor and capital work together to help the President bring back good times."

The proclamation was issued as compromises and arbitration were making heavy inroads into the estimated total of 100,000 workers who started this month on strike.

Jokester Hangs Crepe On Prohibition Door

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 10.—(AP.)—When Harvey Ruble, deputy federal prohibition administrator, arrived at his office today he found some prankster had draped his door with somber crepe.

Although the prohibition bureau went out of existence at midnight, Ruble received telegraphic instructions from Washington today asking him to continue the old set-up until further orders.

tition of other fuels. But others result undoubtedly from unnecessary and unfair cut-throat competition between coal producers."

Harrington scored the position announced earlier at the hearings by Charles O'Neill, spokesman for the Northern and Appalachian code. He asserted:

"O'Neill said he was unable to see any reason for a single code. I am unable to see any reason for more than one code. The evils of the industry would be made worse by overlapping and self-regulatory regional codes.

Provisions to safeguard against long-standing abuses in the mine industry, affecting labor, were explained by Harrington.

O'Neill, in the meantime, announced the Appalachian and Northern associations were standing pat on their demand for company unions and complete control of their industry without supervision by the Federal government.

He bitterly scored Judge M. A. Musmanno, of the Allegheny County (Pa.) Court, for the latter's fiery attack against company police. He said:

"We'll have to get the Judge Musmannos and other debris out of the way before we can get down to business."

Hollywood Strikers Willing to Arbitrate

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Leaders of the striking screen technicians yesterday notified William A. Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, in Washington, D. C., they were willing to submit their case to President Roosevelt's seven-man labor mediation board with one reservation.

The reservation was that all strikers be returned to their former positions "without prejudice or exception."

cutive secretary of the program, stated the status to clarify a situation which had arisen in New Hampshire.

The New Hampshire Public Service Commission had released a letter from the NRA quoting Wilson's office as having said that public utilities of that state would not be required to come under the President's agreement.

Wilson, the assistant to the director of the President's emergency re-employment campaign, said that conditions in New Hampshire as outlined in the communication his office had received from the New Hampshire Public Service Commission had been misunderstood.

Easing of Codes Speeds Enrollment of Industry

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—(INS.)—Liberalized agreements authorized by Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator, are speeding the drive to enroll every business and industry under a code.

At the same time, the entire business world had before it a stern warning not to violate these easy agreements.

Formation of a policy board to recommend easements in the terms of the President's blanket code, so that firms might readily adapt their operations to conform to its aims, has drawn in numerous additional concerns.

It has become apparent that the administrator is subordinating proceedings on permanent codes in favor of speedier and less complicated modified agreements permitted under the President's blanket appeal.

TIME SHORTENING

This is seen in the cast of the oil industry, as well as in lesser fields. With time growing short it is evident that everyone from the President down is anxious to see every major phase of business and industry under some form of agreement which will produce maximum re-employment before winter.

While policing is left largely to each signatory group, there is definite indication that short shrift awaits any such group taking advantage of the liberalized terms and "chiseling" on the benefits conferred by code authorizations.

MISS DVORAK IN SIDNEY ROLE

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—The rebellious Miss Sylvia Sidney, who walked off the stage at a Hollywood movie studio in the midst of a production, is going to be replaced in the cast with the equally rebellious Miss Ann Dvorak.

Miss Sidney, co-starring with Maurice Chevalier, last week won her fight to absent herself from the studio in search of health. Miss Dvorak won her fight, too, but it was months ago, when she complained bitterly that a major studio was "selling her down the river" when it came to contracts and remunerations for her labors.

So she went to Europe with Husband Leslie Fenton. Now she is back to take Miss Sidney's place while Miss Sidney goes to Europe.

Lund, NRA Official Ill With Pleurisy

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Robert L. Lund, of St. Louis, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, today was confined to his hotel apartment with a serious attack of pleurisy.

As a representative of the nation's manufacturers in the capital during the effort to stabilize industry under the NRA and as a member of the industrial advisory board of the recovery administration, Lund has been working long hours at high speed.

STEEL INDUSTRY FEELS UNION INROADS

Labor Organizing in Cleveland and Youngstown

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Two of the nation's basic industries, rubber and steel, which have maintained a traditional open shop policy in years past, are beginning to feel organized labor's spearhead attack under the NRA banner.

From Akron, center of the rubber industry, came word yesterday from labor spokesmen that 1,500 workers have joined the United Federal Union of Rubber Workers there under the aegis of the American Federation of Labor.

2,000 JOIN

In the Youngstown and Cleveland steel districts, organizers announced approximately 2,000 Youngstown workers have joined the A. F. O. L. unions, and that a meeting has been called in Cleveland this week for about 200 workers who have signed applications for membership.

That the federation has taken upon itself a stupendous task, however, is shown by the fact that there are 60,000 workers in Akron rubber factories, 27,000 in Youngstown steel and allied industrial mills, and 12,000 to 15,000 in Cleveland's steel mills.

EXECUTIVES SILENT

Executives of steel and rubber companies have maintained silence in the face of the unionizing campaign, but indications that labor's inroads may not be going unnoticed are seen in a recent appeal of the Akron Labor Council for an investigation by the Department of Labor of alleged discrimination against union sympathizers.

At Youngstown, Henry Bernon, federation organizer, has refused to make public the names of officers of the new union organization in the steel producing mills, on the ground that he is "afraid these men would lose their jobs if they became known."

Railroad Labor Cuts Barred

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—The railroads were told yesterday by Joseph B. Eastman, federal transportation co-ordinator, to postpone all "projects for economy at the expense of labor."

Simultaneously, Eastman said in a separate statement that reports to him from all of the class one railroads of the nation except one showed a net gain in employment on the carriers of 65,268 since June 1.

The co-ordinator's words to the railroads assumed the form of a notice that they must work out their general economy programs through the three regional committees created by law and not through independent groups of their own.

In a statement addressed to the three co-ordinating committees of the East, West and South, Eastman said maintenance by the railroads of separate committees to do the same work had the "earmarks of a device to avoid" the labor restriction provisions of the law.

U. S. Navy Dirigible Passes Over City

The United States Navy Dirigible K-1, en route from Akron, O, to Lakehurst, N. J., passed over Pittsburgh last night at 10:30 p. m., giving a thrill to some thousands of Pittsburghers who were fortunate to see the visitor. Its appearance was unheralded.

'Abduction' Barred

ANNETTE HANSHAW

Petite "blues" singer whose illness prevents her appearance tonight in the "Show Boat" radio program heard over WCAE. To eliminate her role from the serial drama, the script was changed to have her "kidnaped" fictionally, with Lanny Ross, the hero, to "rescue" her later. But, recalling the Peggy McMath case, network officials balked and the "abduction" was eliminated.

man at the postoffice, had bought her a car.

At the hearing today homicide detectives testified that Mrs. Miller had shot her husband "after continual abuse and domestic trouble."

CHILDREN AT HOME

In the Greenfield home today were the three children of Mrs. Miller's second marriage, their father slain, their mother jailed. All awakened from their sleep by the shots that cost their father's life. They rushed downstairs to see him slumped over the kitchen table. And 12-year-old William said:

"Our father didn't treat us very well. We didn't have enough to eat. He liked Gertrude best."

This afternoon Gertrude asked morgue officials for her stepfather's effects, but was not permitted to have them.

Sleuths were puzzled today as to how Mrs. Miller had obtained the pistol with which her husband was shot. Records showed that the revolver had been sold by a Philadelphia store in 1919 to a Navy lieutenant.

France Cuts Tariff On American Goods

PARIS, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Relief from high tariff increases on certain American goods became effective today with the publication of a modifying decree in the official journal.

The minimum tariff was restored on many classes of goods, including printing type, linoleum, leather baggage, cutlery and surgical instruments, while the rate was reduced on many other products.

Discussion of NRA At League Meeting

Dr. C. R. Daugherty, of the University of Pittsburgh, will conduct a discussion on the National Recovery Act Saturday night at a meeting of the League for Social Justice at the Irene Kaufmann Settlement. A report on the coal code hearings at Washington will be made by Charles T. Douds.

PAPERS EXTEND PROVISIONS OF NRA CODE

Hearst, Others Include Reporters, Deskmen; Additional Jobs

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Newspapers throughout the country yesterday began signing the NRA newspaper code filed Tuesday by the association of newspaper publishers in Washington.

Many papers went beyond the provisions of the code. Among these were the Hearst papers, the Scripps-Howard papers, the Philadelphia Record, the Washington Evening Star and the Akron (O.) Beacon-Journal.

All these papers announced that reporters, rewrite men and copy desk men would be placed on a 40-hour basis. An early ruling of Administrator Johnson's office had classed editorial department employes as professional men and so barred from NRA benefits.

EXCEPTIONS MADE

Exceptions to the 40-hour-week provision in editorial departments will be those employed in executive, managerial and supervisory positions earning more than $35 a week.

There are 24 Hearst newspapers throughout the country. The new policy under the code will be put into effect on August 14. Scripps-Howard operates 25 newspapers. They will put the code into effect immediately.

Both organizations said many additional employes would be taken on, but neither could estimate the exact number pending a survey of all plants.

Other papers to sign the blanket code included the Brooklyn Daily Eagle, the New York Evening Post, the Newark Evening News, the Gannett group of 16 papers, the eight newspapers published by the Westchester County Publishers, Inc., the Atlanta Journal and the Atlanta Constitution.

LOCAL IN SCOPE

In a statement filed with their code the publishers pointed out that newspapers were not a national industry, but were local in their scope. They said:

"Conditions in each locality control and regulate such fundamental factors as number of editions, time of publication, method of distribution, etc. It is obvious, for example, that costs in Salem, Ore., can have little or no effect on the cost of publishing a newspaper in New York."

Labor Opposes Code Offered By Publishers

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Labor's opposition to a proposed code for newspaper hours and wages was expressed publicly yesterday while Hugh S. Johnson, Industrial Administrator, took under consideration the plan offered by the American Newspaper Publishers' Association.

Many newspapers throughout the country formally announced acceptance of the A. N. P. A. proposal, some with expansions upon its terms.

Johnson is expected to decide soon whether the code is acceptable. There were some intimations from official sources that he had objections to it, particularly with respect to its failure to specify a short work week for reporters and copy editors.

No final opinion, however, has been formed by the administrator.

Charles P. Howard, president of the International Typographical Union, speaking in an interview for that and other printing labor groups, termed the proposed code "a publishers' trick to get the Blue Eagle without paying a cent," and said he would carry his fight against it to NRA officials.

CLOSED SHOP SYSTEM

Howard asserted that the publishers "drew up a code that means absolutely nothing except perhaps to a few office boys who will now draw $12 a week instead of $10," and that it would tear down the closed shop system under which employers agree to use only members of labor unions in good standing.

The classification of reporters and editors has raised a question under the proposed code, which provides that the hour limits shall not apply to professional persons.

On July 31 an interpretation of President Roosevelt's blanket code included newspaper reporters, editorial writers, rewrite men and other members of editorial staffs in the professional classification.

Johnson subsequently told reporters he had not seen the interpretation, adding that the ruling might have been "a slip, subject to reversal."

LEWIS PLEA FOR 30-HOUR MINE WEEK

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Stocky, forceful John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, demanded today that the National Recovery Administration's industrial revival program guarantee miners who work underground a $5 a day basic minimum wage for a 30-hour work week.

In the NRA's hearing on 27 codes of fair competition fixing wages and hours for the bituminous coal industry, Lewis, reading a 52-page prepared statement, told how he had met with a group of operators to draft one of the 27. Then he insisted that the code or codes finally approved give miners the right to join any union they choose.

'CO-PARTNERSHIP'

He said:

"The (recovery) act, after giving employes the right to organize unmolested for the purpose of collective bargaining provides as a basis for attaining its objectives, a co-partnership between employers and employes. It, therefore, inevitably follows that the act assumes that employers will freely recognize and deal with representatives of employes.

"Refusal of employers to do this involves two deplorable conclusions: (1) That employers are refusing to abide by the spirit and letter of the law, and (2) by this refusal they are not only obstructing the fundamental purposes of the act to accelerate economic recovery, but what is more serious, they are promoting discord and dislocations, for the reason that they leave no alternative to employes but the undesirable one of using their collective strength to force recognition of their organization and its representative."

Lewis recalled that the code to which he agreed would forbid mine employment of children 16 or under, but said:

"We should be very glad to change this prohibition to 18 years or under."

Explaining his minimum pay schedule, which varies from $5 a day for underground to $4 a day, or slightly less, for some above-ground workers, Lewis said these "under-normal conditions would be entirely inadequate" and would "add very little to the purchasing power of areas previously unionized, but, on the other hand, they will bring nonunion fields in the South and North up to more acceptable living standards."

PAY DIFFFERENTIAL

He reported, though, that while he had agreed to 5 per cent lower pay for miners in Northern West Virginia, east of the Mississippi and south of the Ohio River, "there is not the slightest evidence that the cost of living is lower in the South; such evidence as exists indicates that very possibly the cost of living is higher on the average in southern than northern communities."

The differential was accepted, he said, "in the hope that we may be able to establish fair relative rates of pay in and between competing districts."

Establishment of a six-hour-day-five-day-week, Lewis testified, "will extend employment to all available men in the industry." He added:

"It will check overproduction and place the industry in a position to produce at least our national coal requirements. It will eliminate, so far as practicable, the evils of cut-throat competition. It will stabilize costs and maintain wages at reasonable levels. It will enable the producers to secure fair returns on their investments."

He objected to the 32-hour week of four 8-hour days proposed in the code he helped draft. He asserted:

"The 8-hour day will continue the present chaos. It will not create more employment. Overproduction is bound to trail in its wake and the consequent evils of cut-throat competition, low wages and bankruptcy are bound to accompany it."

CAUSE OF ACCIDENTS

When miners get tired, he said, they become careless, more likely to cause accidents. He quoted a 1925 study by the Bureau of Mines to show that most accidents occur in the morning or afternoon. The morning accidents he attributed to carelessness the evening before. He said:

"Longer hours reduce overhead costs. Shorter hours will save human beings from serious accidents and deaths. The six-hour work day, by reducing mining accidents, would more than offset added overhead costs."

Last month, a survey showed 554,700 men available and desirous of working in mines, he said. About 200,000 of these, he continued, are now unemployed.

If a 30-hour week were adopted, Lewis argued, 500,000 miners would be needed to produce the 500,000,000 tons of coal he estimated needed annually for domestic consumption. The other 54,000 men, he said, normally would be idle due to accidents, sickness and the like.

'Company' Town Foes To Continue Fight

Home from Washington where they appeared before NRA officials and urged abolition of the coal company town and coal and iron police, the Pittsburgh committee representing social, civic and religious groups, was laying plans today to continue its fight for better social conditions in the company towns of the Pennsylvania coal fields.

The committee, through its chairman, Charles C. Douds, intends to appeal directly to President Franklin D. Roosevelt if its demands and suggested changes are not included in the coal code as finally adopted.

In addition to asking for the elimination of company towns and abolition of the present system of coal and iron police and special deputies, the committee has asked that the company stores be eliminated, that all miners be paid in cash and that the company towns be made into free municipalities.

County Court Judge M. A. Musmanno, who was one of the speakers for the committee, flew home last night. Others returned by automobile and train. Stephen Raushenbaush, another member of the committee, who also spoke before the administrators hearing the presentation of the coal codes, returned to Harrisburg.

Woman Changes Mind; Asks to Go Free

Mrs. Hazel M. Mazza, comely brunet, of 409 Cadet street, Mt. Lebanon, who yesterday asked Morals Court Magistrate T. D. Jones to send her to a reformatory, changed her mind today.

She told the magistrate:

"I don't want to go anywhere today. I've changed my mind. I was depressed yesterday."

The young woman, whose husband, Frank Mazza is serving a workhouse term for complicity in the North Side laundry holdup several months ago, was placed in charge of social workers.

Ray Miller, of 618 Forest avenue, Bellevue, whose brief case Mrs. Mazza admitted she had stolen so she would be arrested refused to prosecute. He had given her a lift from the South Side to the North Side Tuesday night when she took the case from his automobile, he said.

D. J. SELZNICK ARRESTED

Arrested at their homes yesterday by state troopers for alleged violation of the state security act, D. J. Selznick, Van Braam street, and C. S. Callen, Chalfonte avenue, today were held in the county jail at Smethport in default of $2,000 bail each, following a hearing at Bradford on charges of alleged irregularities in a securities sales campaign for the erection of a Bradford theater.

According to Sergt. Vincent F. Bunch, of Greensburg barracks, the arresting officer, information against the pair was made by Ira G. Myers, chief investigator of the Pennsylvania State Security Commission.

Police allege Selznick, who still has an interest in local theaters, was president of the defunct corporation, which had sold securities for the new theaters, but which never had materialized. Callen was the alleged treasurer of the concern, police reported.

WOUNDED MAN FOUND IN POOL

Taken from a city bathing pool in the Allegheny River with a deep wound in his abdomen, William Foyle, 38, of 603 Sandusky street, was reported in critical condition at Allegheny General Hospital today.

Police had not determined how the man was injured. Seven stiches were needed to close the wound. He was taken to the hospital from the pool at the foot of Madison avenue last night.

Hospital authorities notified police today Foyle is in need of a blood transfusion and asked them to communicate with his relatives.

Mellon Cold, Selfish In Biographer's Eyes

Liberal Publishes New Book on 'Millions'

By MAX HENRICI

Andrew W. Mellon is presented as a cold, selfish character in a book entitled "Mellon's Millions," published today by the John Day Company, New York.

The writer is Harvey O'Connor, described as formerly city editor and news editor of the Seattle Daily Union Record, assistant editor of the Locomotive Engineers Journal, and manager of the Eastern Bureau of the Federated Press, and at present a resident of Pittsburgh. The Seattle Daily Union Record and the Federated Press are commonly regarded as extremely liberal organizations.

One would expect from the writer's affiliations that he was none too friendly towards capitalism and capitalists, and that expectation is confirmed by his treatment of the story of the Mellons.

The Mellons have much to answer for, no doubt, but O'Connor verges on absurdity when he drags into his book and, by implication, holds them responsible for such things as the Equitable Gas tank explosion on the North Side, the fatal beating of John Barcoski by Pittsburgh Coal Company police and the refusal of the University of Pittsburgh to let Harry Elmer Barnes discuss the Mooney-Billings case on the Pitt campus.

The author must be given credit for painstaking research. The history of the great corporations with which the Mellons are identified is told with a wealth of interesting detail.

Pittsburghers will find in the book much with which they are familiar, and much which they should know.

"Mellon's Millions" makes entertaining and instructive reading; but because of the author's obvious bias it cannot be considered a great biography.

ESTHER LEAVES HUSBAND

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Terming the action "my own national recovery act," Esther Ralston, film actress, said yesterday she had separated from her husband-manager, George Webb, to resume the motion picture career she forsook eight years ago when they were married.

The actress said:

"For the last eight years I have made marriage my business." Now I am going out of business and I will start anew in films. This will be my own personal national recovery act."

Miss Ralston and Webb were married in Riverside, Cal., Christmas Day, 1925. She returned recently from Europe, where she was starred in several film productions. Her first new role in Hollywood will be in "To the Last Man."

She said she would take an apartment here and live with her 2-year-old daughter, Mary Esther. She added:

"I am not planning a divorce. This is a friendly parting of the ways, a parting which both of us deeply regret. I have a great admiration for Mr. Webb, both as a manager and a husband."

California Girl Will Marry British Lord

LONDON, Aug. 10.—(Universal.)—The London Morning Post today states that the engagement of Miss Elizabeth Rose Bourn, daughter of Senator Arthur Vincent, of San Mateo, Cal., to Lord Burgh has been announced.

RAIN MAY SPOIL METEOR SHOW

Overcast skies tonight likely will put a damper on the opening of the annual celestial show known as Perseid meteors.

However, the show will be repeated tomorrow and Saturday nights so those interested may view the shooting stars in the northeast sky.

The best time to see them is just before the milkman arrives, according to astronomers. Any time, however, after midnight the meteors will be visible, cutting a brilliant trail through the sky. Few can be seen before midnight.

As many as 30 an hour of the Perseids have been counted. None has been known to reach the earth. The poetic Irish have called them "The tears of St. Lawrence."

FUGITIVE, BACK IN CELL, FEARS FOR FUTURE

Maxim, Who Rose to Executive Started as Dishwasher Here

MANSFIELD, O., Aug. 10.—(AP.)—The Ohio Board of Paroles began today a study of the strangely contrasting chapters in the life of 25-year-old Paul Maxim, who while a fugitive from prison, not only attended college, but advanced in the business world until he became a successful advertising manager in Chicago, under the name of "J. Paul Faraday."

But despite the parole board's study of his case, requested by Gov. George White, and hopeful words from the reformatory superintendent, Maxim appeared badly shaken in his cell here last night. He said:

"Last night when I was alone for the first time in six years behind walls and heard that lonely bugle call for lights out, I had a feeling of my life crashing down about my ears and that I was standing in the ruins. And when I realized that behind these walls are more than 3,000 other men marking time until they can be released, I had a feeling that even my friends might forget I was here."

STARTED HERE

Maxim, who was arrested in Chicago Saturday on a mysterious "tip" to police, was a lad of 19 when he was sentenced, in 1927, for one to 15 years imprisonment on conviction of stealing class pins, valued at $100, from a Coitsville (O.) school. He escaped from the reformatory's honor camp the same year.

In the upward climb that followed, Maxim made a humble start—as a dish-washer in a Pittsburgh restaurant. Then he worked in a manufacturing plant in Canton, O., and eventually arrived in Detroit to become a "copy boy" for the advertising department of an automobile company.

Ever fearful of apprehension, Maxim, who, by this time, had changed his name to Faraday, next hitch-hiked to Los Angeles. He worked there awhile for a paint company and won promotion to its St. Louis office. While in St. Louis he studied at night in Washington University.

MADE AD MANAGER

The next step upward led Maxim into the company's main advertising office at Chicago, and when the detectives arrested him there they found inscribed on the door: "J. Paul Faraday—Advertising Manager."

Maxim said he had not seen "Margaret," a Chicago trained nurse to whom he once told the story of his escape, since his arrest. He admitted she might inadvertently have revealed his secret, but said "my faith in her is unshaken."

R. E. Reardon, president of the company by which the fugitive was employed, promised Maxim before he left Chicago he would "stand by" him with aid.

T. C. Jenkins, superintendent of the reformatory, commented:

"We brought Maxim back to comply with certain regulations and to maintain discipline. If Paul is reformed, the object of the institution has been attained and we will do everything possible to expedite consideration of his case."

U. S. JOINS BOND FORGERY PROBE

TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 10.—(INS.)—Federal Department of Justice agents today began tracing the ramifications of a municipal bond forgery which has resulted in the closing of three banks and threatens, authorities said, to be one of the most extensive swindles ever perpetrated.

Investigators under United States Attorney S. M. Brewster said they were prepared to spread their quiz over the nation, wherever municipal bonds are held by banks, investment houses and insurance companies.

At the office of State Treasurer Tom Boyd, where $329,000 in forged municipal securities were found, National Guardsmen were on duty today under instructions to permit entrance to only those auditors approved by Gov. Alf Landon.

The forgery came to light with the arrest of Ronald Finney, a young Emporia broker, on specific charges of uttering $20,000 of forged bonds found in the National Bank of Topeka.

An employe of Finney also is under arrest.

2 WIVES FIGHT OVER BODY OF DEAD FLIER

Rivals Resume Debate At Train Bringing Body Home

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Words were many and tears were few today at the second meeting of two women, each of whom insists she is the lawful widow of Capt. Ed. F. M. Deeds, American aviator killed in China.

Mrs. Marie Hennessy Shirley Deeds, auburn-haired movie actress, who accompanied the body from China, stepped from the train to encounter blonde Mrs. Betty Deeds, first wife of the airman. Said the first wife, 34:

"He was my husband and you know it."

The second Mrs. Deeds countered:

DEBATE RESUMED

Thus the rivals resumed a debate begun a week ago when the arrival of the aviator's body in San Francisco brought them face to face.

The meeting provided a strange reception for the body of the World War flier and soldier of fortune who shot down eight enemy planes as a youthful member of the Royal Flying Corps.

"Well, if he was your husband why don't you show the marriage license?"

The second Mrs. Deeds advised:

WED IN CHINA

The first wife said:

"She can't go to the funeral tomorrow, I can't stand to see her there. I won't let her go."

The second wife shouted:

"You bet your life I'm going to the funeral."

She explained, as she left the station:

"It's just another case of a discarded wife trying to get back in the swim after divorcing her husband and then trying to get the money he left."

The second wife asserted she had proof Deeds and his first wife were divorced in Mexico. To "make it even more sure," she said, Deeds obtained a second divorce in China.

Mrs. Millie Potvin, mother of the flier, said:

TIE WATCHMAN, LOOT BUILDING

Blindfolded and tied to a chair, a night watchman sat helpless for six hours while three armed bandits went through the Martin Building at Federal and General Robinson streets early today.

They surprised the watchman in the cellar at midnight, tied his arms behind him, tied him and his chair to a pole, took his keys and flashlight and scoured the five-story building.

But in only one office were there signs they had entered—the Prudential Life Insurance Company on the third floor. They knocked loose the combination of the safe, tossed about valuable papers and took whatever appealed to them.

W. R. Bedillion, superintendent of the insurance company, estimated the loss at $2,300 in checks and cash.

When the day watchman, C. W. Jordan, Negro, reported at 6 a. m., he found James Thompson, 39, Negro, slumped in the chair and released him. The bandits had departed.

ABANDON BLAST MURDER CHARGE

BUTLER, Pa., Aug. 10.—(AP.)—A charge of murder against James Rubright, Harmony mechanic, was withdrawn today by District Attorney Edgar H. Negley because of insufficient evidence, and Rubright was re-arrested on a morality charge growing out of an investigation into his wife's death.

Mrs. Rubright was killed more than a week ago by a terrific explosion which ripped apart her automobile in a lonely lane near Portersville.

Rubright is in the County jail in default of $2,000 bail. His attorneys are attempting to have the bail reduced.

A Coroner's jury Tuesday night found that Mrs. Rubright was killed by an explosion caused by unknown persons.

MYSTERY CALLS LINKED IN DEATH

GREENWOOD, Miss., Aug. 10.—(AP.)—District Attorney Arthur Jordan said today he was investigating reports that telephone calls from a woman preceded the alleged poisoning of Dr. John Preston Kennedy, 40-year-old surgeon, in whose death Dr. Sarah Ruth Dean, former associate, is held.

The District Attorney said he was told by August Thalmeier, who roomed with Dr. Kennedy, that the surgeon received at least four calls "from a woman" asking him to come to her home. Dr. Dean, 33, woman specialist on children's diseases, was arrested Monday following a deathbed statement by Dr. Kennedy.

Ever since her arrest the woman physician has maintained stolid silence about the case and referred questioners to her attorney.

Dr. Kennedy in his deathbed statement accused Dr. Dean of administering poison to him in a whisky highball.

Relatives said Dr. Kennedy had planned to join his former wife, Mrs. Bessie Barry Brunson, of West Point, Miss., in the Panama Canal Zone late this month and be remarried. A divorce was granted to Mrs. Kennedy March 28 on ground of cruelty.

bustle, until you see the life-like reproduction of the Hottentot Venus in Paris, and the pictures of women on walls of ancient cave-dwellers.

The Hottentots of today are like the cave men of ancient times, in that they like their women as fat as possible, especially around the hips, so fat that even before twenty they would weigh three hundred pounds or more.

NO RULES apply to women, or anything concerning them. A young New York authoress who had been kept on a strict diet consisting chiefly of milk, returns from a two weeks' vacation looking remarkably well and reports:

"I went completely off my diet while spending my vacation in Nova Scotia. What did I eat? Principally lobsters, cream and gin."

If a man did that, he would die, instead of looking better.

BEFORE YOU worry about dollar inflation, read figures from the United States Treasury. Dollars in circulation at the end of July were fewer by more than ninety-one millions than in June. And all our dollars in circulation, now that we have gone off the gold basis, are fewer by $96,549,000 than a year ago.

All the money in the United States amounts to less than $40 for each inhabitant. That does not seem too much, considering that a healthy black slave in the old days was worth $1,000. Should we not, on the contrary, and without any inflation, have at least five or ten billion more dollars in circulation?

MUSSOLINI'S dentist, Dr. Piperno, visiting Chicago, says that Mussolini has never lost a tooth, nor has anybody in the Mussolini family ever lost one.

Mussolini reads as much as possible while in the dentist's chair, and doesn't care what the dentist does. The latter says:

"Questo si fara soffrire un poco," "this will hurt a little."

Mussolini replies invariably:

"Non temo il bolore," "I do not fear pain."

JUDGES IGNORE DEATH THREAT

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Judges of Chicago's Criminal Court are answering the challenges of crime with action to put gunmen behind prison bars.

Threats of death, sent to members of the judiciary, were followed almost immediately yesterday by the sentencing of 10 more men to the penitentiary.

This action brought to 66 the total of alleged offenders sentenced to state prison since authorities here began an intensive drive 10 days ago to clear the dockets of criminal cases.

Judge Joseph B. David, one of the judges threatened, read a letter containing the threats and then promptly sentenced Lester Brown, 23, to the maximum of one year to life for robbery. He also sentenced Jerry Ford, reputed gangster of the Roger Touhy gang, to three months in the House of Correction for having a gun.

The threatening letter was addressed to Judge David and said that the writer, who did not sign his name, would shoot the Judge and "a few more judges."

SNATCH RACKET EXPOSED BY WRITER

The "snatch racket," gangster term for kidnaping, has become known in the underworld as the safest and most lucrative form of crime, Henry F. Pringle reveals in the September Cosmopolitan.

Sketching the rapid increase in kidnaping in the last several years, the writer foresees even more extensive operations of gangsters in this field when bootlegging is eliminated with the repeal of prohibition.

REMEDY ADVOCATED

Telling of his exhaustive investigation of kidnaping, he says:

"Everywhere I found agreement that kidnaping began to increase in 1927 or 1928, and that its growth into a racket has been most marked since 1931. It is estimated there were 3,000 cases that year, that perhaps as much as $2,000,000 was paid in ransoms in Illinois alone during 1930 and 1931; that in a three-year period $500,000 has gone to kidnapers of St. Louis and Kansas City.

SECRET CASES

"I learned on authority which is unimpeachable that there were five major kidnapings on Long Island, near New York City, last year. They were kept absolutely dark. Those captured were men of wealth and social prominence. The ransom demands were quietly met and the criminals, although their identities were known in one or two cases, are still at large.

"Most serious and alarming is the likelihood that the snatch racket will soon be entered by the hundreds of ruthless, cunning grafters, thugs and murderers still engaged in rum running."

Blind Workers To Draft Code

resign and permit a new Secretary of State, acceptable to all groups, to accede to the presidency.

Grave concern was expressed for the welfare of citizens unless the strike could be brought to a quick termination. There is little bread, and the distribution of milk is being made under armed guard. Stocks of foodstuffs are being exhausted rapidly.

Since the state of war became effective at 6 p. m. yesterday, the military has been in full control. Unrest has increased, and the attitude of the United States is being watched closely by Cubans wondering what action President Roosevelt may take. Mr. Roosevelt's desire, as expressed yesterday at Hyde Park, New York, is that the political difficulties be solved "at the earliest possible moment" so that economic welfare may be preserved.

SHOP BOMBED

Widespread police precautions have been taken to halt violence. Explosion of a bomb early today, however, emphasized that strikers are not retreating from their position. The bomb damaged a bakeshop whose owner had not joined the strike.

Spanish Ambassador Luciano Lopes Ferrer, according to an authoritative source, has protested to the President against treatment accorded Spaniards, two of whom were killed Monday, when guards fired on crowds near the presidential palace and killed 21 persons.

Officials at the British legation declined to confirm a report that Grant Watson, the British minister, had conferred with Welles about treatment of British subjects and damage to British property during disturbances.

MACHADO UPHELD

Meanwhile, Senator Wilfredo Fernandez, a conservative who has supported the administration, announced a commission of congressmen would call on Senor Machado today to assure him of support.

The only certainty in the congressional situation today was that party lines would be broken as liberals, populars and conservatives indicated divisions in their ranks over Machado's suggested resignation.

Secretary Ferrara told the Associated Press that Senator Pedro Goderich, reported yesterday as having assured Welles of co-operation in the mediation efforts, had later asked Machado for an interview today to express his esteem for the president.

Roosevelt Waits Machado Reply to Proposals

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Aug. 10.—(AP.)—A program prepared by President Roosevelt and designed to bring an end to the strife in Cuba was on the way to the island republic today, while the Executive anxiously waited here in his family home for reports on its reception.

Senor Oscar Cintas, Cuba's ambassador to this country, received the program while in conference with the President here, approved it and announced he would immediately communicate with his own government.

Mr. Roosevelt was in doubt as to how President Machado, of Cuba, would receive his suggestions, put forward in the most friendly and informal fashion, but stood ready to offer all possible aid to Cuba in putting through his proposed program.

He spent two hours outlining the plan to Cintas and afterwards there was issued from the temporary White House here the following statement:

"The President and Ambassador Cintas discussed the Cuban situation, especially the economic aspects. They feel that the problems of starvation and depression are of such immediate importance that every political problem should be met in the most patriotic spirit in order to improve conditions at the earliest possible moment.

"The ambassador is communicating with his government."

If President Roosevelt has in any way suggested that Machado step out of office for a temporary leave of absence from his post, there has been no authentic information to this effect here.

Carefully the President has avoided armed intervention in spite of at least two suggestions made quietly by other nations that he resort to this to protect foreign life and property in Cuba. It was known privately here that Great Britain and Spain are seriously concerned and have suggested this government take drastic steps.

Stratosphere Flight Off Until Spring

BRUSSELS, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—The ascent of Max Cosyns into the stratosphere was postponed until spring today when a gondola pressure test revealed defects in structure necessitating complete overhauling.

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—With the British and Spanish diplomatic representatives protesting to Ambassador Sumner Welles against the lack of law and order in Cuba, and with receipt of word that an actual reign of terror exists in Havana, the position of this government towards its troublesome Latin neighbor today rapidly approached a climax.

Despite the forces of circumstances which appeared to be pushing the United States towards the brink of armed intervention, the administration is still strongly averse to this drastic step.

OPPOSE INTERVENTION

Officials still maintained intervention was not contemplated and would be considered only as a last resort.

The situation confronting the government was described as both delicate and difficult.

The action of the British and Spanish diplomats in protesting direct to Welles over the head of the Cuban government was regarded in some quarters here as notice to the United States that it has obligations to fulfill in Cuba under the 1901 treaty.

Under the Platt amendment to this treaty, the United States is given the right to intervene "for the preservation of Cuban independence and to maintain a government capable of protecting life, property and individual liberty." In some quarters this is regarded as an obligation.

PROTEST KILLINGS

The Spanish Ambassador complained that three Spaniards had been killed by police, two allegedly without provocation, and that about 60 Spaniards had been arrested for refusing to open stores owned by them. The British Ambassador protested against damage caused to British property in the interior of the island.

Meanwhile, the troubled situation in Cuba brought Ambassador Katsupi Debuchi, of Japan, to the State Department today to inquire about conditions there with particular reference to the safety of Japanese subjects.

He told newspapermen afterward that Secretary Hull had assured hi mthe United States is taking every possible step to prevent damage to the life and property of foreigners in Cuba.

HINT RIVAL RULE BY MENOCAL

MIAMI, Aug. 10.—(INS.)—Possibility of establishment of a provisional Cuban government was seen today by Gen. Mario G. Menocal, former Cuban president and leader of the opposition forces opposed to President Gerardo Machado.

Usually reliable sources in Miami said last night that the former Cuban president would fly to Cuba and set up at the eastern point of the island a provisional government.

Menocal, these sources said, relied on the withdrawal of United States recognition of the Machado government and benevolent tolerance of any provisional government that might be established.

Gen. Menocal, apprised at his Miami Beach home of the Machado ukase which ordered martial law throughout Cuba, withheld comment on the decree until more fully informed of the situation. Gen. Menocal was reluctant to discuss what effect the Machado order would have on the troubled political Cuban problem.

CUBA COST U. S. 6,472 LIVES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—(INS.)—Efforts made by this country during the past 35 years to extend a helping hand to Cuba have cost the lives of more than 6,000 Americans.

Nearly all these casualties occurred during the Spanish-American War, when the United States intervened to free Cuba from Spanish oppression. The American casualties in that war totaled 6,472. Most of these, however, resulted from disease rather than battle.

The last time American troops were sent into Cuba owing to political disturbances was in 1906. The occasion was somewhat similar to the present situation. The Marines remained in the island for three years, during which time American representatives exercised the power of government.

American troops were landed in Cuba again in 1912, but this was at the request of the Cuban government to protect property threatened by social disturbances.

Sloppy Joe's Open But Few Appear For Drinks

HAVANA, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—"Sloppy Joe's," the famous bar near the palace which is a favorite haunt for American tourists, presented a strange spectacle today. The doors of the place were flung wide open, but there was not a single clerk or helper to be seen inside, and customers were few.

U. S. GIRL FREED BY CUBANS

HAVANA, Aug. 10.—(Universal)—Herta Skirving, American employe of the Commercial Cable Company, here, detained by police late last night, was released early today after representations had been made by American Ambassador Sumner Welles.

Although no charges were preferred against her, it is understood the girl had been taken into custody after allegedly making comment unfavorable to the Machado government.

U. S. MILITARY HELD READY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Although President Roosevelt has indicated every effort would be taken to avoid intervention in the Cuban emergency, informed quarters here today disclosed that should it be necessary the Marines now stationed at Quantico, Va., probably would be the first to land.

About 1,000 men at Quantico, only a few miles from the national capital, are equipped as expeditionary forces for quick action.

They could be landed in Cuba within a few days.

Unofficial estimates showed probably 2,000 or more Marines and sailors could be rushed to Havana from other points on the Atlantic coast, landing shortly after the Quantico group.

At least 5,000 regular Army troops also would be available, mostly from the First Division, composed of four regiments of infantry and auxiliaries stationed in and around New York.

Although Army officials declined to divulge how the mobilization would take place, no secret is made of the Army and Navy policy to have a "plan for every possible emergency."

Sources close to Army authorities told the Associated Press that the First Division in New York would be the first Army troops to go in the event of orders from the Chief Executive.

The Navy's contribution in case of need could come both from Quantico and Philadelphia, and from ships on the Atlantic seaboard.

Roosevelt Pledged Support on Cuba

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Aug. 10.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt was assured today by Representative Fish, of New York, ranking Republican member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, of united support in whatever action he deems necessary to restore order in Cuba.

Illness of Woodin Worries President

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Aug. 10.—(INS.)—Overshadowed as it was by the Cuban crisis, the visit of Secretary of the Treasury William H. Woodin at the family home of President Roosevelt today was regarded as significant.

The Secretary has been seriously ill of a throat infection. Mr. Roosevelt had a number of matters to take up with his treasury chief, but said most of all he wished to warn him to take good care of himself physically.

MONROE POLICY 'OUTWORN'

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—United States Senator Key Pittman, of Nevada, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, renounced the Monroe doctrine as "an outworn policy" today. Returning on the liner Manhattan from the World Economic Conference in London, he said:

"I think that for the purpose of assuring the Latin American people that we are sincere in our announced policy that we will not interfere, we should make a declaration that there is no longer necessity for the Monroe doctrine.

"We should say that the Monroe doctrine is an outworn policy. It would be the greatest assurance the Latin American people could have that we are sincere and that there is no further obligation on our part to interfere in their domestic affairs."

He declined to commit himself on whether the United States had cause, as yet, to intervene in Cuba under the Platt amendment. It was the Cuban question, to which he is planning to give his attention in Washington immediately, that brought an inquiry as to his stand on the Monroe doctrine.

U. S. IN DRIVE TO BOOST TAX RECEIPTS

(Editor's Note—This is the second of a series of five articles on the federal income tax system, which 25 years of experience has demonstrated to be unreliable as a revenue producer, costly in administration and discriminatory.)

By ARTHUR HACHTEN
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Uncle Sam's horde of income tax collectors has been given orders to dig a little deeper for revenue, to pry more thoroughly into your tax return in an effort to help fill the yawning Treasury coffers.

With the bulk of returns for 1932 now in hand, they are being subjected to microscopic examination by the government's trained personnel.

What a labyrinth of inspection the millions of returns required under the income tax system must undergo.

First, your return is checked for mathemtical accuracy. Calculating machine operators do that. If errors are discovered or the returns are not filed on time you may expect to receive a notice of the increase or decrease in the amount of tax you owe the government. A reminder of penalties in the law will be attached.

CASES DELAYED

A this point you may, if you happen to have a large amount of money involved, employ a tax expert, for the average citizen knows little about the complex income tax system. But eventually you probably will call for the help of an expert as your case drags through the mesh of "income tax procedure."

Sixteen thousand tax attorneys have been admitted to practice before the Board of Tax Appeals.

Returns of all corporations and of individuals having net income in excess of $5,000 are forwarded to Washington. Here statistics as to the income reflected are compiled, the controlled and selected returns transferred to the field division nearest to the taxpayer's residence or place of business for examination in connection with the taxpayer's books and records.

HEARINGS SET

Upon completion of the examination in the field, the taxpayer is furnished a report of the findings. If a change in tax liability is proposed, the taxpayer is given an opportunity to confer. An explanation will be given by the government, but if Mr. Taxpayer does not like it he may submit evidence for consideration.

If Mr. Taxpayer agrees with the findings, assuming the deficiency was the result of examination, he may sign an agreement permitting immediate assessment and collection of the amount due.

But if no agreement is reached the argument is transfered to Washington, where more conferences are begun and the real fight begins. If after these conferences Mr. Taxpayer's mind is unchanged, a final notice is sent by registered mail notifying him of the tax deficiency.

You have your choice of paying or carrying the battle before the Board of Tax Appeals and if that board turns you down the courts are open. That's another long drawn process.

They SOUND great!

JUST listen to Kellogg's Rice Krispies when you pour on milk or cream. They actually crackle with crispness. And their wonderful flavor makes you want them again and again.

So nourishing. So easy to digest. Fine for children, particularly the evening meal, because they invite restful sleep. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

What Kind of Streets?

PORTLAND CEMENT stops this hole in the motorist's pocket

CONCRETE—BRINGS WORK TO MEN—BEAUTY TO THE STREET —SAVINGS TO EVERY MOTORIST

Now, for the first time, Federal Funds will be available through your State Highway Department for paving arterial streets. The government provides for this with no burden to the property owner or city in its direct grant to states of road building funds. Your arterial streets should be paved now—and with the finest type of pavement—CONCRETE . . .

CONCRETE meets every government specification—that the improvement be permanent—that it be substantially built—of a type that will give men work. CONCRETE does that—and gives you far more.

It gives you:

Streets that cost far less to maintain than any other type.

Streets that cost less to drive over—saving on tire wear, gasoline, repair bills and depreciation for every mile you drive.

Streets that improve the appearance and the property values of the neighborhood.

Streets that are less-than-concrete pile an extra burden on every motor car, every delivery truck using them. Day after day, such streets make driving more costly by increasing car operating and maintenance costs—¾c more per mile on the next best type—2c more per mile on unpaved streets.

Dollars-and-cents figures, gathered in country-wide surveys, prove these facts. CONCRETE, the longest-lasting of all pavements is the most economical of all pavements to use. Portland cement—basic ingredient of concrete—is the material of the engineer for stopping the hole in the motorist's pocket.

Insist on CONCRETE for your streets—get the most and best street for the money—and the maximum employment for labor!

CONSECRATION HERE TO BRING REUNION

There'll be somewhat of a reunion in Pittsburgh September 21—a reunion of four who as students walked the streets of Rome together, sat nearby in classes at the North American College there, argued and played together as students do when they are pressed together as Americans in a foreign land.

The reunion will center around the Rev. Ralph Leo Hayes, Pittsburgh priest who at 10 a. m. that day, in St. Paul's Cathedral, will be consecrated bishop of Helena, Mont.

FELLOW-STUDENTS

And of the three others, who were fellow-students in Rome, one is now Archbishop Samuel A. Stritch, of Milwaukee. He will preach the sermon. The two others, Bishop James A. Griffin, of Springfield, Ill., and Bishop Alphonse J. Smith, of Nashville, Tenn., will be co-consecrators.

Bishop Hugh C. Boyle, of Pittsburgh, will be the consecrator—for the first time since he was consecrated by the late Archbishop Regis Canevin. Consecration is one of the rarest of the duties of a bishop, many going through a lifetime in that office without being called upon to perform the service. It wasn't until Archbishop Canevin was leaving his office, retiring, that he performed it.

Meanwhile, according to the Rev. James M. Delaney, chairman of the press committee for the event, 12 committees are functioning in preparation for the event.

2,500 INVITATIONS

Invitations have been issued to 2,500 priests to attend from the dioceses of Pittsburgh, Erie, Altoona, and Helena. The committee expects about 700 to attend. A dinner will be served to the priests and the dozen or more prelates who, after the consecration, are planning to take part. South Hills friends and parishioners also plan a reception on the night of the twenty-first.

Admission to the cathedral on the morning of consecration will be by ticket only. Father Delaney said:

"As many tickets for the laity will be issued as the limited space in the cathedral will permit. Application must be made in writing in the name of the person who wishes to be present and should be addressed to The Consecration Committee, 125 North Craig street, Pittsburgh, Pa.

"Stamped return envelope should accompany the application. The committee will endeavor to make a just distribution of the places available and will send tickets of admission by mail to those who can be accommodated. No charge will be made for admission."

JAP TERRORISTS BLAME U. S.

TOKIO, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Lieut. Horishi Yamagishi, leader of 10 naval officers undergoing court-martial charged with the assassination of Premier Suyoshi Inukai and other terroristic acts, testified today that fears of "America's ambition" motivated the terrorists.

Testimony was produced to show that Yamagishi commanded the naval officers who invaded the Premier's residence, and that he gave the command "fire" which loosed the fatal shots.

After he had made his anti-American statement, the court room was ordered cleared and the hearing continued in secret. The proceedings are being held at the Yokosuka naval base.

The lieutenant declared that he and the other officers feared the United States would attempt what he called further domination of Japan and the Orient in 1936, when revision of the Washington and London naval treaties is due.

Contract Bridge -:- HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

The Approach Principle

Every beginner at the game of Contract Bridge knows that when he makes an opening bid he may or may not fulfill the contract he undertakes. Bidding, in its early stages, is a prophesy. Prophets are great or poor, according to whether fulfillment follows the prediction made or the reverse. When the cards are dealt and the Dealer picks up his hand, he never knows, except in rare instances, whether he will play the hand against an opponent's bid, whether he will become the Declarer, even with a trickless hand, or whether his hand will become the Dummy, with his partner playing the contract. The element of defense is therefore an essential factor in the making of any Opening bid, and no Opening bid should be made unless it guarantees a certain minimum of defensive strength against any adverse contract. Constant study and experimentation has placed this minimum as not less than 2½ honor-tricks. With such a holding, generally speaking, the Dealer is entitled to prophesy that should his partner hold one-third of the outstanding honor strength and a slight element of favorable distribution a contract of one-odd can safely be undertaken by the combined hands.

In view of the fact that in making an Opening bid the player is venturing into unknown territory, it is wise for him to proceed cautiously, to feel his way, and thus, protected by a network of Approach suit bids of one, act with care until he learns something about the distribution and honor strength held both by his partner and by his adversaries.

The Approach principle, as applied to Contract Bridge, may be briefly stated as follows:

Whenever a hand contains a biddable suit, even a shaded four-card minor, that suit and not notrump should be bid first. The logical time for notrump bidding is after information has been exchanged as to suit lengths. Notrump bids in the early stages crowd the bidding too much and eliminate many valuable suit bids, while the bid of a suit always leaves the alternative of the bid of notrump without increasing the contract. The use of the Approach principle in bidding does not decrease, but, as a matter of fact, increases the number of safe notrump contracts undertaken.

The "notrump complex," which causes players to bid notrump even when holding a biddable suit, is a disease especially prevalent among advanced players, for beginners and average players still retain the natural freshness in their subconscious card-sense; urged by the desire to make a score at their own bid if possible, and sensing the danger of venturing beyond their depth and thus subjecting themselves to a penalty, they naturally make the correct Opening bid—namely, a low suit bid.

With the hand below, only beginners and a few of the world's ranking master players will make the correct natural bid. The difficulty of making this correct bid is further aggravated by the fact that South, the dealer, holds a count of 150 for honors if the hand is played at notrump, and the "four Aces complex" is a disease almost as fatal as the notrump complex.

South, Dealer.

	♠ J 8 3 2 ♡ 7 ◇ K 4 3 2 ♣ K 6 5 4
♠ K 9 ♡ J 10 6 5 2 ◇ Q 10 9 6 ♣ Q 8	North West East South	♠ 10 7 6 ♡ K Q 9 4 ◇ 8 5 ♣ J 9 7 2
	♠ A Q 5 4 ♡ A 8 3 ◇ A J 7 ♣ A 10 3

With this hand many players will open with an optimistic bid of two notrump. If this is the Opening bid, North should raise to three, and the result obviously is down one against West's Opening lead of the heart five. Other players will open with a bid of one notrump, and the result will be that the hand will be played at that contract, which will be made with an overtrick. In both cases, however, the Opening notrump bid has disastrously shut out a game bid in spades. An expert player will open with one, not two spades. North, in response to this, will bid two spades, and South should now bid three notrump, insisting that North make a choice as to whether the hand shall be played for a game in spades or notrump. With this bid, which tends to invite, not exclude, information, North's choice of the final contract is plain. Four spades, of course, is made against any defense.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Neither side vulnerable.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	2 ♡	?

You, North, hold:

♠ K 10 8 ♡ 7 3 ◇ J 9 4 2 ♣ K 8 7 5

What do you bid?

Answer: Pass. Although this hand contains playing strength for a shaded Raise to two spades, with the intervening Overcall North should pass. South has another chance to bid if he has a strong hand. Had West passed, North then would have been forced to raise South immediately.

SLAYER OF TWO HANGS TONIGHT

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Barring a last-minute stay of execution, 21-year-old Omer Brill will be hanged tonight for the slaying of two women in a 66-cent store robbery near Moorefield several months ago.

Joe Corey, Charleston merchant, convicted of slaying one woman and indicted for the death of his wife, was to have been hanged tomorrow. He was removed from a death cell near Brill on a stay of execution granted by the Supreme Court, and awaits a new hearing sometime next month.

Brill's execution is set for 9 o'clock. No move has been made to save him from the gallows, although the youth says he is innocent of shooting Mrs. Love Burch and her daughter, Esther, 17.

Corey's stay was granted on a writ of error. He was sentenced for the slaying of Mrs. Katherine Ghiz, of Logan, in a Charleston confectionery a year ago, and was accused of killing his estranged wife, Mrs. Ada Ghiz Corey.

Maine Man Named Jugo-Slavia Envoy

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—(INS.)—President Roosevelt today named Charles S. Wilson, of Maine, to be Minister to Jugo-Slavia.

Wilson is a career diplomat and has previously served as American Minister to Bulgaria and Rumania.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Using the Title 'Miss'

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you kindly tell me if the word "Miss" is proper before a girl's name on a calling card?

CONSTANT READER.

Yes, no matter how young the girl is, she should have the "Miss" before her name on her visiting-card. So punctilious are some people about this that even when they send out birth-announcements (that is of the formal type where the small baby card is attached with white ribbon to the engraved Mr. and Mrs. card) they have the Miss engraved before the name of the girl baby.

Wedding Invitation

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—I have been engaged to a girl for over a year and everything has gone fine until now. There is a young couple, friends of ours, who are to be married very soon. They have asked my girl friend and her sister to be bridesmaids. The sister of the bridegroom is also a bridesmaid and her boy friend is to be an usher. Do you think my girl friend should have accepted, knowing that I would be an usher? I don't think she should have.

2—Should I go to the wedding under these circumstances and not knowing anyone else there?

3—Should they send an invitation addressed to me?

UNCERTAIN.

1—I imagine that you meant to insert a "not" in your sentence, making it read, "Do you think that my girl friend should have accepted, knowing that I would not be an usher?" Is that right?

The answer is that your girl friend should have accepted this invitation, whether or not you were invited to be an usher. This is taken for granted. It is not necessary for you both to be asked to be members of the wedding party. These invitations depend entirely on the wish of the bride and groom, and we should abide by their wishes and convenience.

2—Of course go to the wedding. It would be very ungracious of you not to go because of this.

3—Yes.

Should Parents Criticize Daughter's Boy Friend?

Can Dad and Mom break up Flo's love affair by telling her what a tramp the boy friend is?

Can they make her despise him by nagging at her and pointing out that he's a loafer and a lightweight?

For several months they've been trying to. Now they're badly worried, because in spite of all they can do—

But read it yourself. And, as you read, frame your own answer and see if it matches mine.

My Dear Miss Robinson:

We are nearly distracted, and since you seem to understand people, especially young people, so well, we thought we would see if you could help us.

We have a daughter who is just past 18, and very pretty. She has always been every popular, and now there is a certain young man hanging around her who is no good at all. He is lazy and has a bad name in the community. But he seems to have a "line" that has our little girl fascinated, and he is determined to go with her.

DEFENDS BOY FRIEND

We have tried to talk to her, but she won't listen to us. We have tried to tell her that this fellow is no good, but she just gets angry, and says everybody is "down on" him. Which isn't true—except as he himself has given people reasons for not respecting him.

He goes around with people who are cheap and just short of being criminal. He drinks. He won't work, even when he can. He lives off his folks, who are fairly well off, and plays around with a wild bunch.

We have tried to tell our little girl all this, but she only answers that "people misjudge him," and that if they'd give him a break he would be different. She insists that she has every confidence in him, and has no intention of allowing us to come between them. She invites him to the house. We are civil to him, but he knows he is not welcome. Yet he has the effrontery to come constantly.

And now the affair threatens to become really serious. They are talking about getting married. Naturally, we are almost frantic. There is an awfully nice boy who is also interested in Florence, but she can't see him, it seems in spite of all our efforts to get her to realize how much finer he is than this other chap.

She has given up all her friends for this creature. What on earth can we do?

A WORRIED MOTHER.

What'll you do?

First off, stop making a hero of the Boy Friend by martyrizing him. Naturally, Flo thinks that she is his Noble Defender against a carping, unjust world. And stop trying to get her to "appreciate" the other chap! Yes, I know how worried you are, with every seeming right. But can't you see that these foolish tactics are bringing about the very thing you dread?

QUIT OBJECTING

You see, you've been arousing two things in her, that will fight you—her proud independence and her protective instincts. All real women have a tender spot for the Under Dog. Also, all Young Things like to do their own deciding. They wouldn't be worth a hoot if they didn't.

So, quit objecting. Reverse the procedure. Be nice to her swain. Be casual and pleasant. Give him credit for his good points—and give him a little competition. Invite other young people in; nice, gay boys and girls. Let her see him among them—and learn to judge him for herself.

Let her size him up beside boys who are ambitious and regular. The chances are that she'll soon see him as he Really Is, if you give her a chance and give her plenty of other interests—without letting her suspect you're trying to scuttle him.

By FAY KING

In countless offices business men are much admired by the young women who work with them. I do not mean in a personal, romantic way, but as a kind of an ideal of how they would like their own husbands to look.

Some of these girls come to the conclusion that all the best dressed and nicest mannered men are already married.

But had they known these same men 10 or 12 years ago when they were first married they probably would have found them as awkward and uninteresting as they consider their young unmarried men friends now.

A good wife does much to improve her husband's appearance and manners. Marry your awkward young man and make him as attractive as your ideal.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Body Needs Large Quantity of Water

"How much water should I drink?" "Is it best to drink water between meals or at meal time?" "Is hot water more beneficial than cold water?" "Is ice water harmful?" These are questions I am often asked.

Dr. Copeland

Water is essential to life. A person may live for an indefinite period without food, providing he has plenty of water.

Ghandi demonstrated this truth. Why is water so important? Water makes possible certain necessary chemical changes to occur within the body. Without these reactions life cannot continue.

I wonder how many of you know that the body consists of about 70 per cent water! Different parts of the body contain different amounts of water. For example, the enamel of the teeth contains only two per cent water, while the saliva contains about 99 per cent and the blood about 80 per cent water.

The amount of water within the body is kept at a pretty definite level. When an excess amount accumulates the skin removes part of it in the form of sweat. In addition, more fluids are brought to the kidneys and water is excreted.

Many of the wastes of the body are dissolved by the water we take. Irritating and poisonous substances are diluted by the water content of the body.

Persons suffering from a lack of water are said to become dehydrated." By this is meant that the tissues are deprived of the normal amount of water necessary to carry on the normal functions. The red blood corpuscles cannot act as they should without it.

Bear in mind that water is necessary if many important chemical changes within the body are to be promoted. Since more than three quarts of water are thrown off through the skin, lungs and kidneys of the average person each day, it is essential that this loss be replaced.

Drink at least six to eight glasses of water a day. If you prefer to drink your water at meals, do so, providing it is not used to wash down your food and thus interfere with digestion. It is advisable to take water between meals. Avoid iced and very cold water.

Household Hints

Over-ripe tomatoes will become firm if placed for about 20 minutes in a basin of salted water.

Ebony should be rubbed up with raw linseed oil, then polished with warm beeswax, and last of all with a little shellac spirits of the consistency of cream.

Answers to Health Queries

M. H. S. Q.—What causes little pimples on the hands?

A.—This may be due to eczema. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope for full particulars and repeat your question.

A. M. Q.—What would you advise for reducing—we are two sisters, 15 and 11 years old, respectively?

A.—Cut down on sugars and starches and take lots of outdoor exercise. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

Q. R. Q.—What should a girl of 19, 5 feet 2½ inches tall weigh?

A.—She should weigh about 118 pounds. This is about the average weight for one of this age and height as determined by examination of a large number of persons. A few pounds above or below the average is a matter of little or no significance.

A Sequel to Heart Of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Mary and Noel Are Shooed Out of Sight

Lillian's query as to what Dicky had meant hung unanswered in the air as the hotel telephone sounded. I knew, as she moved swiftly towards it, that the same question was in her mind as in mine. Was Edith Fairfax even now in the lobby, below, bringing to us the mysterious grievance that Dicky so evidently objected to her relating?

She looked up at me with a relieved face as she listened to what was being said over the telephone.

"It's all right," she said to the person at the other end of the wire. "Tell them to come right up." Then she put up the telephone and turned to me with a grin.

"It's not darling Ede, after all," she said. "The operator says that Miss Harrison and Mr. Veritzen are downstairs, and wants to know if it's all right for them to come up."

"I suppose they want to make sure the ogre hasn't arrived by airplane," I said laughing.

"Which is the only method of conveyance by which he could get here in this time," Lillian assented. "What do you say? Shall we take the kids in on the plans, or just let them bob in unexpectedly after we're finished with old Phil?"

"Please decide that for yourself," I said, unwilling to let Lillian know that I already had advised Mary and Noel to deal with Philip Veritzen in exactly the same way that I was very sure she was about to outline.

LILLIAN DECIDES

"We'll give them just a hint," she decided, after a second's thought, "then we'll park them in my apartment until Phil has arrived and is safely gone again. Come in!"

She raised her voice as a knock sounded upon the door, and the next instant Mary and Noel burst into the room.

"We were so afraid he might get here before we got back," they said together, and Lillian and I smiled quietly at each other before answering them.

"You have plenty of time," Lillian told them, "and some to spare. But we think it would be much better if you two parked yourselves down in the Underwood apartment until after we've sounded out the great Mr. Veritzen. All you have to do is to remember these things when we call you in. You haint' heard nuthin' and you don't know nuthin' except that you couldn't stand it when you thought you were going to be separated, and asked Aunt Madge's permission to be married so that you could go over to Paris together. Can you remember that?"

"Yes, indeed," they said together.

"Then beat it, both of you, down the hall to my sanctum," she said, "and don't worry! Your Aunt Madge and I have pulled the wool over Phil Veritzen's sharp eyes more than once. We may be able to do it again. But we're for you, anyway, no matter how the battle goes, so all will not be lost."

Her tender, humorous smile followed them out of the room, but as the door closed behind them, her lips formed a wry grimace.

"Poor babes in the wood!" she said. "I hope we'll be able to rig up some nice leaves for them. But I confess I get cold feet whenever I think of old Phil. However, here's the dope! When he comes in, you tell him that you have something to tell him something you have done which is troubling you a bit, although you are sure he will approve, because he gave you a free hand in the matter. By that time he'll be smelling a mouse, so you'd better hurry up with the rest of it before he gets a chance to register objections.

PERPLEXING QUESTION

"Tell him, then, without further delay, that you've given your consent to the immediate marriage of Noel and Mary, because Noel does not wish her to go to Paris without him. Say that they came to you instead of him because last Christmas he turned the whole question of their marriage over to you. Make that last strong.

"Then you can sit back and wait for the explosion. I'll be carefully watching in which direction the stones and lava are flying, and I'll try to deflect any of them that I can. From that point on we'll have to be guided by what he says and does, and our only teamwork can be by signals. Let's watch each other carefully!"

"I shan't take my eyes from you," I promised. "But, Lillian, suppose Edith and Mr. Veritzen reach here at the same time? What shall we do?"

BRITAIN, FRANCE DISCUSS NAZIS

PARIS, Aug. 10.—(INS.)—Lord Tyrell, British ambassador to France, held a long conference with Premier Daladier today in connection with the Austro-German situation.

The announcement given out in Rome that Germany had promised to halt Nazi aerial and radio activity in Austria was the chief topic of the conversation.

The newspaper L'Intransigeant reported today that France and England have granted Austria the right to create a special police force of 8,000 men under War Ministry control to "suppress disorders."

MULHOUSE, France, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Armed French troops were again stationed today on the German frontier near here as a precaution against the alleged aggressions of German Nazis such as occurred early this year at Huningue.

More than 200 Nazis are reported to have marched to the middle of the Huningue Bridge February 21, singing "Deutschland uber Alles." France made protests to the League of Nations and German government at that time.

Lloyd George Aids Welsh Eisteddfod

WREXHAM, Wales, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—The Ystalfera Choir, composed largely of Welsh coal miners, won today's choral competition at the National Eisteddfod. One English and six Welsh choirs, totaling 1,200 singers, both men and women, competed.

Runaway Visits Fair, Doesn't Hunt Indians

HAMMOND, Ind., Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Teddy Whitaker, 12-year-old son of Judge Virgil E. Whitaker, turned up missing Sunday, but the judge did not become alarmed.

The judge said:

A postcard came from the boy yesterday:

"Don't worry, I'm at the World's Fair. Will be back in October."

But he came home two months early. Teddy's money ran out, and he returned today.

STAR POLICE ATHLETE DIES

Sergt. Roy C. Brandt, 29, of 223 Alice street, Knoxville, one of the outstanding athletes of the Pittsburgh police force, died early today in Homeopathic Hospital. Doctors gave Bright's disease as the cause of death.

A sergeant for the past three years, he was a member of the force for seven. Before that he was a patrolman in old Knoxville Borough.

At Mt. Washington Police Station, where he was desk sergeant, he organized the mushball team and was its pitcher. At police field meets, he was noted as a boxer.

He leaves his wife, Florence Roll Brandt, a son, Roy, Jr., and a daughter, Jean; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Brandt; two brothers, Alfred, of Columbus, O., and Orval, of Pittsburgh, and a sister, Lois, also of Pittsburgh.

Luther, Nazi Envoy, En Route to U. S.

BREMERHAVEN, Germany, Aug. 10. — (AP.) — Dr. Hans Luther, German ambassador to the United States, sailed for New York today on the Columbus.

5 PLANE CRASH DEATHS PROBED

HONOLULU, T. H., Aug. 10.—(INS.)—Why a twin-motored United States Navy seaplane crashed into Pearl Harbor, killing five members of the crew and injuring a sixth, was under investigation today.

The only survivor, N. A. Tuft, of Sacramento, Cal., aviation machinists' mate, said that the plane dived into the water when its tail surfaces were torn off. Tuft was injured fighting his way from the cabin of the plane in which four of his comrades were trapped and died. A patrol craft rescued him.

The dead: Lieut. Charles Hill, Washington, D. C.; Lieut. Theodore Marshall, Long Beach, Cal.; C. C. Stewart, aviation mate, Dallas, Tex.; V. C. Hovey, radio operator, Kingman, Kan.; L. B. Pitt, first class seaman, Athens, O.

Tuft said that Lieut. Marshall, a graduate of the Naval Academy in 1924, tried to save himself with a parachute, but did not have time. His body was recovered. Divers worked today to recover the plane and the other four bodies.

Aged Woman Found Ill in Home Dies

Found unconscious in her home a week ago after neighbors had missed her for two days, Mrs. Anna M. Paxon, 72, of 419 Miami street, East McKeesport, died yesterday. Mrs. Paxon, suffering a paralytic stroke, was found lying on the floor in her dwelling where she lived alone.

Engineers Jeered As Sun-Dodgers

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Aug. 10.—(AP.)—The sight of hardy engineers working under the shelter of sunshades aroused not a few persons to amused comment until County Engineer Radigan explained the umbrellas were for the protection of the instruments, not the men. He said:

"The level instrument is so sensitive the effect of the rays of the sun would cause an error in the work."

A woman's reason
for liking a man's cigarette

Maybe you'll think I'm a bit inconsistent. Most things I'm fond of are really quite feminine . . . dainty, frilly frocks—delicate desserts—yes, and delicate compliments, too. To me my cigarette is a personal thing—it touches my lips—so give me one with real character. For some reason or other, I find that whenever I reach for a Lucky, always "Luckies Please". They're as mild and pure as can be—I wonder if "Toasting" isn't the reason after all!

ECONOMY'S AX 'KNOCKS OUT' DRY BUREAU

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—The President's modified reorganization plan went into effect today, involving around 10,000 employes, of whom about 900 have to look for other jobs.

There was, first, the Prohibition Bureau with 1,800 workers. This was transferred into the Justice Department's new division of investigation. Six hundred employes, 200 in Washington, 400 in the field, were slated to lose their jobs.

A. V. Dirymple retired as director of prohibition with the abolition of the dry law enforcing bureau, and it was definitely stated he was not to be among the re-employed.

Next was the merger of the bureaus of investigation and naturalization in the Labor Department. All the 3,907 employes in these, save 275, were reappointed temporarily for four months. The 275 were allowed 10 days notice of retirement or discharge.

SHIPPING AFFECTED

The third big transfer found the heretofore independent United States Shipping Board and the Merchant Fleet Corporation put under the Commerce Department.

Until September 30, all the 2,800 employes of the abolished office of Public Buildings and Public Parks of the national capital will be retained temporarily.

AGENCIES ABOLISHED

Numerous other smaller agencies also were merged, or abolished.

Official estimate the changes will eventually cut expenditures about $5,000,000.

Heading the new division of investigation of the Department of Justice that came into existence under executive order today is J. Edgar Hoover, long in the government service. He will occupy the key position in the administration's national warfare against crime.

Pennington Orders Men Report to Work

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 10.—(INS.)—Confident that most of the dismissed employes of the Federal Prohibition Bureau in the tri-state district will be retained in the new Bureau of Investigation, Commander John D. Pennington ordered them to report for work today despite the fact the dry bureau was abolished by executive order last night at midnight. He said:

"I am almost certain most of them will be retained. We have some work to clear up and despite the official order we will carry on until some other provision is made."

SANBORN DEATH CLUE FOUND

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—A belief that Henry F. Sanborn, railroad executive, was slain by persons he knew well was expressed by detectives today. They announced they had a definite "lead," but would not say what it is.

Information given to the police was that on the day Sanborn disappeared he was on his way to look at a house he considered buying for his intended bride, Miss Magnhilde Almskaar.

Police, questioning all Sanborn's acquaintances and associates in their search for clues, interviewed his second wife, Mrs. Irene Waltrous Sanborn, who fled here from her St. Louis home en route to attend the funeral of her former husband in Epsom, N. H., yesterday. She said, detectives announced, that she could tell them little of his affairs since their divorce four years ago.

Bancroft Mitchell, a New York investment counselor said to have had business dealings with Sanborn, declared at Florence, Italy, where he is on vacation, that he had no worthwhile information about Sanborn's movements.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh Society Happenings

In Mayfair —With— Patricia Pitt

With two more debutantes added to the list today, there'll be 36 girls whose parents have decided definitely to present them to society this year.

And add to these the names of the girls whose parents are thinking seriously of bringing them out, and the name of Althea Robinson, who came out in June and attended deb parties last year, and who probably will be on hostesses' debutante lists again this year, the number of debs mounts to 41!

And I think it will probably reach the grand and glorious peak of 45, when bowing time for debs comes in the fall.

Latest Debs

The latest additions to the list are Patricia Witherow and Alice Brown. Patricia is the daughter of Mrs. David McG. Witherow, of the East End, and Alice, of the McCleane Browns, of Sewickley.

Patricia will not only 'come out" this fall, but she'll be a junior at Carnegie Institute of Technology. Patricia and her mother are in town for a few days after visiting in Beaumaris and Cobourg. They'll be off in several days for Bay Head.

* * *

Among the girls who still aren't sure whether or not they'll be debutantes is Agnes Hobart, among others who are in the same state of indecision are Vardi Marshall, Josephine Pendleton, Antoinette Vilsack and Eleanor George. And Eleanor Merrick's parents, the F. I. Merricks, haven't definitely decided either.

There'll be no decision about whether Agnes Hobart is to be or not to be a deb until fall. For she and her parents, the Harold P. Hobarts, of Tennyson avenue, and the rest of the Hobart family, are leaving tomorrow for Pine Orchard, Conn. They'll stay at a clubhouse there.

Visits Nyack

Debutante Margaretta Oliver, daughter of the A. K. Olivers, is visiting Betty Bradley at Nyack. Mary Gordon is visiting a sister debutante, Margery Hillman, at Beaumaris. And Sherley Tunnell, another deb, is in Philadelphia, for a fortnight.

* * *

Mrs. Leonard S. Mudge is out of town just now, but she's not far off. She's at Pike Run Country Club, where her mother, Mrs. Taylor Allderdice, is spending the greater part of the summer.

Lucille Craig will be her sister's maid of honor, and Mrs. Eleanore Dando Sutter, of Beaver; Elizabeth Miner, of Philadelphia; Janet Reed, of Washington, and Ruth Rogers, of East Orange, will be bridesmaids.

Gossipy Chat With Nancy Jane

Evelyn Evans is in search of other Evelyn Evanses.

Evelyn, who's the daughter of the Howard Salisbury Evanses, and a sister of Laura Evans, has just received a bill from the Homeopathic Hospital for care of an Evelyn Evans three years ago.

And the social registerite Evelyn, who received the bill, has never been a patient in a hospital in her life!

The weather has been most considerate of the outdoor concerts on the Hotel Schenley lawn, played by Victor Saudek's Little Symphony, until Tuesday night.

After a downpour all afternoon the hotel management moved the concert setting into the ballroom, for the sky looked ready for another downpour any minute.

There were little tables placed about the room, as well as rows of chairs. And everybody smoked as if out-of-doors.

Dr. Thomas Baker, president or Carnegie Institute of Technology, sat smoking a cigar and listening intently.

A waiter, through serving beer and ice cream to the concert patrons, joined another one, who pointed out to him the composition the orchestra was playing. Then they both settled down to enjoy the concert.

Mrs. F. F. Rohrer, whose composition "From My Window" was played at the concert, the first time it has been given, was in the audience.

State Federation Active In Work for Blind

Work to aid the blind is one of the most important of the projects of the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women. All the small branches of the organization do an unbelievable amount toward aiding the blind. Many of them cut and sew discarded silk garments and hosiery into carpet rags used in making hooked and woven rugs by the people in the homes for the blind and other such institutions.

The work is divided among small groups, each contributing one factor to the whole. Some of the members of the Federation collect the garments, others sew; Seniors and Juniors transcribe books into Braille; they provide transportation and assume responsibility for care of blind children whose parents are unable to do so; they purchase fellowships in "The Seeing Eye" to provide guide dogs to blind men and women.

An extremely interesting article on the Federation and its work for the blind has been written for the recent edition of The Clubwoman, official publication of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, by Mrs. Clifford Taylor, chairman of the division of the blind in the Pennsylvania Federation, who began her work for the blind when she lost her sight, and studies constantly the cause, prevention and cure of blindness.

FEATHERS ARE WITH US, TAKE YOUR CHOICE OF VARIED MODES

IN PARIS, a certain American photoplay was shown to capacity audiences, and "Lady Lou" to them, or "She Done Him Wrong" to us, made fashion history. Many who came to see Mae West emote were couturiers, sitting for the third and fourth time, armed with pencil and paper. Due to this picture, a series of 1909 (Mae Westian) fashions were born. Taffeta petticoats rustle under evening skirts, shoulders are dropped in evening decolletages, and feather boas float all over the place.

* * *

THE FACT is, we in America saw the same fashion possibilities. Keep your eyes open for a certain taffeta evening gown, slim and straight, with an added "sweeper petticoat" under the hem flounce. There's a sudden passion for feather ornamentation. Hats, gloves, capes, hems, borders, epaulets, sleeves, scarfs—even purses—are plumed. It's a matter of speculation just how far this feathery barrage will go.

* * *

WITH MAE WESTIAN impetus, another influence in dress applies itself to this feather ornamentation. It's the new silhouette—broad shoulders with "angel wings" flying out, and slim, narrow hips. Many designers are saying this with feathers. For shoulder width, there are huge collars of herons, wide flowers of coq feathers, necklace scarfs of white plumes, "birdlike" wings on princess dresses and short, wide sleeves of silky black feathers.

* * *

HATS TOOK to this feathery fad too. One, with a wreath of curly ostrich feathers mounted on a net foundation, shows the hair on top of distinguished heads! Its accompanying cape, made of rows and rows of the same curly ostrich, sewn down flat, ties at the neckline. You can see it in detail in the sketch.

* * *

ANOTHER POINTED toque you will see a great deal of has a silhouette based on the hats worn by a certain order of Chinese hermit monks. It has a little peaked crown and a feather fancy tucked somewhere near the turned-up brim. It's perfectly fascinating on. To prove how profusely feathers are used, this particular hat of velvet is worn with a high, wide collar of gleaming, bronzy ostrich plumes.

* * *

THE MOST-DISCUSSED Mae Westian devolopment is a medium-brimmed cartwheel hat, with square crown, on which, to one side, a gay frou of ostrich plume is placed. Before long you will see this hat everywhere. Bridesmaids will be among the first to take to it. If you are unconventional, bring an extra ostrich plume to your favorite florist, and have him mount your corsages on that, discarding flower leaves. With this new bonnet, you should look quite wistful—in the 1909 manner. Remember that feathers are with us, so choose your own original approach to the situation.

SLEEP ILLNESS FATAL TO 3

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Three persons are dead and 19 others seriously ill in hospitals from encephalitis, commonly known as "sleeping sickness," which has made a sudden appearance in suburban St. Louis.

Mrs. Carrie Doerr, 69, of University City, died yesterday. Others who died in the last few days are Mrs. Addie Meachum, 71, of Overland, and Fred Green, a Negro, of Beacham Park.

Dr. John W. Eschenbrenner, head of Isolation Hospital here, said the bacteria causing encephalitis have never been isolated, and it has not been definitely known to be contagious of appearing in epidemic form. As a safeguard to the community, however, the outbreak will be handled as if it was contagious, he added.

'PROBLEM BOY' ADMITS SLAYING

CINCINNATI, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—A 16-year-old "problem youth" was being returned here from Meridian, Miss., today after confessing, police said, that he beat to death Oliver S. Baily, 27, insurance broker and local society man.

District Attorney Aubert Dunn, of Meridian, quoted the youth, John J. Henkel, of Cincinnati, as saying:

"I am glad I killed him. He deserved it."

Moving swiftly, the Hamilton County grand jury returned two indictments charging Henkel with first degree murder and murder while committing a robbery.

Baily's body was found in "lovers' lane" on the outskirts of this city Sunday morning. Dunn said Henkel declared he struck Baily down with his fists after the man took him out in his automobile Saturday night and "made an immoral approach on me."

Henkel, a ward of the Juvenile Court, was taken into custody Monday afternoon when a Meridian filling station operator became suspicious at the incongruous spectacle of a shabbily dressed boy driving an expensive automobile. The car was Baily's.

MERCHANT BODY OF STATE NOW 'GROCERS'

The Retail Merchants' Association of Pennsylvania is now known as the Pennsylvania Retail Grocers' Association, its officers announced today at the closing session of the annual convention in the William Penn [illegible].

Members of the association voted to change the name last night at a banquet in the Heinz auditorium. Officers said the action was taken unanimously, because 85 per cent of the members are grocers.

W. M. D. Miller, of Allentown, president of the association, told the 300 persons at the banquet:

"We are now the baby organization. It is up to every one of you to do your part. Make friends with your competitors—rub arms with them and put Pennsylvania where it belongs."

At the banquet a large golf cup was presented to Charles Wolff, president of the Retail Grocers' Association of Allegheny County and general chairman of the convention committee. Wolff won the cup at the national grocers' convention in Atlantic City.

The convention was to close today after several committee reports, action on the new by-laws and installation of officers.

Reserve Officers To Plan for Fair

Army Reserve officers in the Pittsburgh area will attend a meeting tonight of the Pittsburgh C[illegible]ter, Reserve Officers' Association, in the Ninety-ninth Division Headquarters, Westinghouse Building.

Plans are to be approved for participation in the Allegheny County Fair at South Park and arrangements completed for presenting a flag on August 17 to the company of the "Forest Army" now encamped at North Park.

DROUGHT, NRA BOOST FOOD COST

Nature has joined forces with the recovery program to hasten advances in prices of many and varied articles of food, in the consensus of Pittsburgh food merchants.

With drought rampant in the West and Northwest, attacking wheat, corn and peas, some dealers are finding it difficult to get sufficient deliveries, coupled with a resultant rise in prices.

Effective this week, the government's processing tax of $1.38 a barrel on flour raised the price in stores. This upward jump has been in effect in bakeries for the past month, being reflected in the price of baked goods.

Not alone are food products influenced by the price elevation, but many other articles handled by grocery stores have been affected, such as clothes lines and soap powders, according to the executives.

While they are as one in the announcement that natural causes have resulted in the greater part of present price gains, they agree that higher labor costs under the President's re-employment code will send prices even higher in the near future.

Explanations for the mounting retail prices in grocery lines were given by the following store and supply house executives:

R. L. Dietrich, manager of the supply house to Triangle Stores:

"Soap powders are one of the articles to be affected by the increase in raw material and labor costs. The combination of advances in raw materials and the crop shortage is responsible for higher retail prices, but the crop shortage bears the greater share of the burden to date.

"But the labor and distribution overhead will bring about additional price rises in the future, as the recovery program gets under way."

L. B. Smith, in charge of sales, P. H. Butler Company:

"Thus far grocery companies have raised wages considerably. We will have to pay more for products and the retail prices will be up accordingly."

PROCESSING TAX

"Nature has done much to raise prices on food. Crops have been badly damaged by drought in the West and Northwest. Corn hase been burned up in the fields and right now we can get only 5 to 20 per cent deliveries on canned peas, because of the small crop.

"Then there is the processing tax on wheat and cotton. For instance, cotton is used in making clothes lines, resulting in a 7-cent tax per pound for this one article alone.

"When the manufacturer increases his production costs by paying higher wages he, of course, is entitled to add that to his cost and it will be felt in retail prices."

J. J. Burns, vice president in charge of the central division Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company:

"The outstanding example of how prices react to governmental recovery moves was the increase in the cost of flour at retail stores on August 7 when the processing tax of $1.38 a barrel went into effect for retailers.

"Also the only way to increase purchasing power under the recovery program is to create larger payrolls and decrease unemployment by hiring more people. This naturally adds to the overhead and will be reflected in higher prices."

FOOD PRICE GAIN

H. V. McNamara, branch manager of Kroger Grocery and Baking Company:

"Retails prices have advanced very little and only in line with the market advance. The wheat processing tax and increased prices paid to the farmer for wheat have necessarily increased the price of flour and other wheat products. The increase in the price of flour naturally increases the retail selling price of bread.

"Dairies have increased the price paid to the farmer for milk and in turn the cost to the dealer has gone up. This naturally causes increased prices for both bottle and can milk.

"We look for a decided increase in prices from now on due to the manufacturing costs being raised, because of increased wages and shorter hours under the recovery program."

ROMAN TRIUMPH FOR BALBO

ROME, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—A Roman triumph, a custom not followed for many centuries, will be revived Saturday to give Gen. Italo Balbo and members of his transatlantic seaplane squadron a rousing welcome home.

It will have another purpose, too—to pay tribute to Premier Mussolini as the inspiration for Italy's renaissance in aviation. It will compete in enthusiasm with the receptions given the fliers in Chicago and New York and in other places along their route.

General Balbo advised the air ministry today that he plans to bring his armada to Ostia, Rome's new port, from Lisbon, Portugal, 1,300 miles away, without stopping. Their arrival in Italy is set for Saturday evening.

Returning from Ostia, the Premier and Gen. Balbo will be driven through the central passage of the Arch of Constantine, just outside the ancient Coliseum.

The 1,600-year-old monument, erected after Constantine's victory over Maxentius, will again become the momentary center of attraction in the Roman world.

On each side of the arch, additional arches of triumph will be formed of hundreds of banners in the hands of youthful Fascists.

POLITICAL PLOT CHARGED IN HILL ARRESTS

POLL TAX CASE ARGUED

A petition for a mandamus on the County Commissioners to compel them to separate the poll tax from the personal property tax in billing taxpayers was argued today in court.

Judges James R. Macfarlane, Elder W. Marshall and John P. Egan heard the argument and will render a decision later.

Congressman Henry Ellenbogen, representing himself in a taxpayer's suit to force the separation, declared certain taxpayers were being robbed of the right to vote because they are compelled to pay personal property tax as well as poll tax.

Assistant County Solicitor Ralph H. Frank stated a law of 1861 empowered County Commissioners to collect the taxes, and that they had the legal right to group the levies.

Or Mayor Herron Can Have Amen Corner Pillar's Place

Mister Joe Natali, one of the pillars of Amen Corner, wishes to announce his retirement as a candidate for Council in favor of Mayor Herron and Mussolini.

This will settle the question which has had political circles in a trance. The question:

"What about Natali?"

The answer, from the gentleman himself:

"I retire in favor of Mayor Herron, no matter what he's running for. You can put Mussolini in there, too. There's nobody like Mussolini."

Mr. Natali emphasizes that he is retiring as a candidate because he never was a candidate.

While Mr. Natali was busy withdrawing himself, he was summoned to the telephone. Somebody wanted to contribute $500 to his campaign. After a hurried conference with his associates (which means whoever was nearby), Mr. Natali accepted the offer:

"Send the money up. I'll settle for $250. We'll have a party. Beer. Ravioli. Spaghetti. Maybe some red stuff. I stand for a New Deal."

B. & L. MEN SEE LEGAL BAR TO HOME BONDS

Acceptable Securities Limited by Law Of State

Building and loan associations in the Pittsburgh district will not accept the Federal Home Owners Loan Corporation bonds for mortgages unless the present interpretation of state laws governing building and loan associations is revised, according to A. O. Horner, president of the Allegheny County League of Building and Loan Associations.

The state law limits the bonds which a building and loan association may accept in exchange for mortgages to obligations of the national and state governments guaranteed both as to principal and interest, and to the bonds of the Federal Home Loan Bank, Horner declares.

INTEREST GUARANTEED

The Home Owners Corporation bonds are guaranteed by the Federal government as to interest for 18 years, but are not guaranteed as to principal.

J. S. Baughman, manager of the Pittsburgh Office of the Home Owners Corporation, believes a new interpretation will be given the state law which will permit building and loan associations to accept the corporation bonds.

As much depends on the general willingness of the holders of mortgages to take the bonds, he attitude of the large mortgage owners is being watched closely here.

One prominent downtown banker has expressed belief that the corporation's bonds are a good investment. An insurance company of national importance recently let it be known that it will accept the bonds.

WILL ACCEPT BONDS

Many individual holders of mortgages are also favorable to the exchange, it is reported.

In the first eight days of the operation of the corporation in Pittsburgh, more than 20,000 home owners have been interviewed regarding loans, according to Baughman.

This pressure for aid has been felt in all parts of the country, so that the Roosevelt administration is reported concerned about speeding the machinery for extending aid to the home owners. According to Washington reports, the administration is being urged to make the acceptance of bonds for mortgages a patriotic duty similar to that involved in the NRA campaign.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Aug. 10.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Now look out, Democratic administration, you are about to revert to the old Republican type. You are telling some Latin-American country who shall be president and who can't. Now there is no doubt that Cuba is run "cockeyed," but what country ain't?

Will Rogers

Now we get our sugar from Cuba, and anything we do in Cuba is going to be misunderstood, so about the best thing we can do in Cuba, is to let Cuba take care of Cuba. I don't care how little your country is, you gota right to run it like you want to. When the big nations quit meddling, then the world will have peace. Yours,

BROTHER HELD IN SHOOTING

Carl Sonnie, 28, of Greensburg, is back in the county jail today following his arrest last night by state police on a warrant charging him with being an accessory after the fatal shooting of his brother, John, 24, by Deputy Constable Roy T. Hirtle, of Springdale. Hirtle fired at the youth during an alleged holdup at Springdale.

Sonnie was originally released from the jail after he denied knowing anything about the shooting. Today he is quoted by Justice of the Peace Earl Shoop, of Springdale, as admitting he drove his brother to the scene of the shooting "where he was to meet a man about a job."

2 MEN SEIZED CHECKING FOR ASSESSMENTS

Blocked Sidewalk, Say Officers; Machine Leaders Blamed

Charges that the arrest of two men checking the names of persons making affidavits before a special county sub-assessor in a hall at Wylie avenue and Belinda street, was an effort by police and Fifth Ward Republican leaders to prevent assessment of Negro voters in the ward, were made last night by Paul Jones, a Negro, of 2124 Center avenue.

The two men, Arthur Jackson, 51, a 2313 Mahon street, and William Pierce, 43, of 2044 Rose street, both Negroes, were discharged by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in night court.

BOOKS SEIZED

Police, who charged them with violating a city ordinance, testified the two were blocking the sidewalk and refused to move on. The men denied the charges, saying the policemen had forbidden them to write any names and confiscated their books.

Jones charged the organization leaders in the ward told persons seeking to be assessed that their names were on the books and that they did not need to be enrolled.

He said this means was adopted to keep down Democratic registration in the ward, a Democratic trend being feared as the result of an educational campaign among the Negro voters.

EXTRA SESSION SET

Due to a heavy rush of voters seeking late assessments to qualify for the primary election, sub-assessors will sit an extra day in the Fourth Ward, Oakland, Friday.

The extra affidavits will be taken at 142 Orr street between 4 and 10 p. m. The sub-assessors have been sitting in the ward since Tuesday. Affidavits today are being accepted at Engine Company No. 58, Aliquippa and Wallace streets.

Thirty sub-assessors are sitting in the county and 30 investigators are checking affidavits to determine if voters are qualified residents or citizens. When assessments are completed, Leo G. Riordan, in charge of the County Bureau of Investigation, said, the sub-assessors will be added to the investigating force.

CHARGES ANSWERED

Riordan answered charges of Attorney B. Robert Averbach, counsel for the Regular Republic Campaign Committee, by saying that if babies and children are on assessment lists, it is due to misinformation given by householders. He emphasized the need for investigations, he said. Averbach had protested the delay in assessing voters while investigations were being made.

Demmler, 1100 Termon avenue, North Side. Representative John J. Kane and Thomas Gallagher will also be on the slate, running with William N. McNair for the mayoralty, backed by the organization.

In his announcement Demmler said he had always been independent in politics, and had never been a candidate for public office. He declared for economy in government as one of the first duties of public officials. He pledged support to McNair in the mayoralty primary against John M. Henry, candidate of the anti-Lawrence Democrats.

Walker is a member of the Legislature, serving his first term. Both men declare themselves free of factional entanglements.

Attorney Thomas A. Thornton has been named general chairman of the campaign committee of Raymond D. Evans, candidate for Common Pleas Court. Mrs. Margaret A. Armstrong, past national president, Ladies' Auxiliary, Veterans of Foreign Wars, is vice chairman.

TOM WALSH FOE HELD IN THEFT

Bennie Zeck, 25, of 1502 Forbes street, alleged to have beaten Tom Walsh in the First Ward constable feud a year ago, was held by police today for Cleveland authorities.

Detective Walter Monaghan, of the homicide squad, told Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Central Police Court that Zeck is wanted in Cleveland in connection with the robbery of a gasoline station attendant of $300, February 22.

Monaghan later stated that Zeck also is suspected of knowing something about the holdup and slaying of a woman social worker, named Steele, in Cleveland a year ago. Cleveland detectives were here seeking Zeck recently, according to Monaghan. Zeck was arrested at his home last night.

Zeck denied all charges, said he know nothing of the Cleveland crimes and that he would fight extradition.

HERRON BARS POLITICAL TAB

The Mayor told newspaper men that, so far as he is concerned, there will be no assessment on the city employes during the coming political campaign.

The budget economies of last fall which resulted in 16 2-3 per cent salary and wage reductions for the payroll were referred to by the Mayor, who said he felt the employes had gone through enough financial hardships.

The Mayor was asked if there was any truth in reports that ward chairmen were "putting the bee" on workers in certain wards. He replied that there had been rumors of such trouble in one ward, and that the condition had been taken care of satisfactorily.

COURT TO NAME ELECTION JUDGE

Choice of a successor to Tom Dolan—one of the "three Toms" indicted as alleged owners of the Monaca Club—as judge of elections in the Eighth District, Fourth Ward, was taken under advisement by Judge John P. Egan today. It is Senator James J. Coyne's home ward.

Judge Egan heard witnesses for Maitland A. Wilson, independent candidate for the post, ask for appointment of a man "free from factionalism." Attorney James Milholland, for Wilson, told the court "the better element" in the ward would like to have "an election board that will count the votes."

Salesman's Death Cause Unsolved

A Coroner's jury was unable today to determine the cause of death of John (Scotty) Walker, 32, salesman, of House 124, Castle Shannon, whose body was found along the Pittsburgh Railways Company interurban trolley tracks in Castle Shannon, July 26.

McCormack Can Earn Eagle By Forming Quartet

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 10.—We would like to know how the NRA stands on one-man trolley cars.

The motorman does the work of the conductor and the conductor ain't working.

We understand the slogan is one job to every worker. There should be one in the front and one in the back. And one in the middle to watch them both.

Right now the greatest benefactor of mankind is the genius who invented the two-handled saw, which furnishes work for a couple of lumberjacks and allows them to talk politics at the same time.

RAZOR HURLED AT EX-GIRL FRIEND

Mildred Tucher, 18, of 7314 Tioga street, hurls a mean razor, her former friend, Rose Mastermonica, 24, of 7506 Tioga street, testified in Morals Court today.

Miss Mastermonica testified that Miss Tucher came to her home last night, accompanied by a boy friend, and threw an old fashioned straight-blade razor at her. It missed her but knocked a chunk of plaster from the wall she said. A feud had existed between the two girls for some time, they admitted.

Magistrate T. D. Jones asked Miss Tucher what she intended to do with the razor. She replied:

Miss Tucher was fined $20 with the alternative of serving 20 days in jail, on a suspicious person charge.

GUILD TO STAGE O'NEILL PLAYS

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—The Theater Guild has received two new plays by Eugene O'Neill from his home at Sea Island, Ga., and has placed them on its production schedule for the next season.

The first play, "Ah, Wilderness," is described as a folk play which takes place shortly after the turn of this century. It will go into rehearsal within a few weeks, according to present plans, and will open the guild season.

The second, "Days Without End," is called by the author a modern miracle play.

TAX LIEN FILED AGAINST FOX

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—An attempt of the federal government to collect additional income tax and interest totaling $1,980,939 from William Fox, the film producer, was disclosed by a lien filed in the district court yesterday by the revenue collector's office.

Fox, according to the lien, underpaid his income tax in 1929 and 1930 by $1,768,696 and owes that amount plus interest.

In Fox's behalf it was said a dispute existed as to whether duplicate losses could be deducted from income by Fox personally or by his film organization, which also claimed them.

German Group Asks U. S. Tariff Protest

BERLIN, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—The German Industrial Commercial Chamber has asked the government to protest to the United States against what were termed excessive American tariffs, which the chamber claimed recently were ordered paid in gold.

JEAN CAMPBELL, R. N.

TRAINED NURSE MAKES BIG HIT ON RADIO

Just a short while ago, Jean Campbell, R. N., was practicing her profession as a registered trained nurse—like hundreds of other earnest young women. Today, she is a vivid radio personality, with an ever-growing audience of women who listen to her three mornings each week over station WCAE.

Miss Campbell has a fascinating subject—because she tells women how to reduce surplus weight and how to groom their figures for the slim fashions of 1933. She also has a soft charming voice and plenty of that quality that radio men call "microphone appeal".

Without any previous broadcasting experience whatever, Miss Campbell started her series of talks three weeks ago. Since then hundreds of Pittsburgh women have written her letters and met her personally at May's, 5th and Liberty Avenue, where she lectures each day on Vannay, the new scientific method of weight reduction.

Tune in on Station WCAE on Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings at 9:00 o'clock and see if you are not delighted with this young woman who is surely winning a place for herself among the radio stars.

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Hope is revived among businessmen that the Beaver-Mahoning River route project may yet be selected.

Maj. Gen. Lytle Brown, chief of Army engineers, plans a personal inspection of the proposed canalization of the two rivers, which would give the Youngstown, O., industrial district an outlet to the Ohio River.

Army engineers in a report to Washington recently opposed the plan.

PREACHER SLAIN FROM AMBUSH

ELLINGTON, Mo., Aug. 10.—(AP.)—James A. Radford, farmer-minister, was shot to death yesterday at his farm near here by an unknown assailant.

Radford's daughter, Ruby, told officers she heard two shots, and then saw the slayer, who had been concealed in some bushes about 20 feet from where her father was standing in the barn lot, make his getaway.

Once a year Chief Connally takes a course of S.S.S.

BEING Assistant Chief of the Atlanta Police Department is no child's play. Chief C. P. Connally vouches for that. He must keep his mind alert and his body physically fit.

Several years ago Chief Connally's system got in a run-down condition. It was then that he decided to take S.S.S. In six weeks time he wrote: "My appetite and digestion are greatly improved, so much so that I can eat pork and the like without any discomfort, and to my surprise my skin and complexion has cleared and become almost like a child's. S.S.S. has so improved my circulation and the condition of my blood that it has made me feel like a young man again."

Now, once a year, Chief Connally takes a course of S.S.S. Tonic to keep his red-blood-cells and hemo-glo-bin up to normal.

Try it yourself. S.S.S. may be the very means of bringing better health and more happiness to you. At all drug stores in two convenient sizes. The larger size is more economical. © The S.S.S. Co.

IT TAKES HEALTHY NERVES TO WIN THE BRITISH OPEN!

●ABOVE—TWO CONTINENTS CHEERED when slender Densmore Shute, brilliant young American golfer, with wrists of steel and nerves that never wavered, won the British Open—the tenth American champion in ten years!

●RIGHT—"I'M NOT A CHAMPION GOLFER—not even a fair one, according to Mr. Shute's standards! I'm a young married woman, interested in home and children. But I'm inclined to be the nervous type. So I switched to Camels, for the sake of my nerves, and because Camels are definitely a milder cigarette."

How are Your Nerves?

Steady Smokers turn to Camels

When it comes to healthy nerves, "DENNY" SHUTE speaks with authority. "I couldn't have won the British Open if my nerves hadn't been in perfect condition," says Shute. "Healthy nerves are essential to any golfer who wants to turn in a good score. The enjoyment of cigarettes has not interfered with my golf game because I have smoked Camels right along. I have tried all the brands and long ago found that Camels are milder, and what is even more important to any golfer, they do not jangle the nerves."

* * *

"Denny" Shute offers conclusive evidence that Camels are milder. That they don't interfere with healthy nerves. That smokers like Camels better, the more they smoke them. Consider the fact that Camels are made from costlier tobaccos—and switch to them yourself. You will also discover that Camels are better for steady smoking.

IT IS MORE FUN TO KNOW

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand. Leaf tobaccos for cigarettes can be bought from 5¢ a pound to $1.00...but Camel pays the millions more that insure your enjoyment.

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

Gag Man Pinch-Hitting for a Gag Man
By Fred Allen

Dear Walter . . .

"ON BROADWAY" is an appropriate heading for this column. You are out there in Hollywood and I am up here in Maine. I'm a little nervous about accepting this invitation to bat for you today. You know Bernie says the only time you would ever invite a guy to step into your shoes in when you're in your stocking feet. But you know good old Benjamin. If you miss a knife when you're eating dinner with him look in your back . . . It will be there. Yowsa. They tell me to convince the yokels at the Fair that he has the hottest band on the ground . . . he's leading the boys with a poker. Between us, Walter, the Old Mess-tro hasn't been hot since the Chicago fire. Well, you know the old saying, "All work and no play makes the best jazz band." So much for the fellow who is fast replacing the hurdy-gurdy.

Flash . . .

It's going to look funny watching the Irving Trust Company swinging the towel in Carnera's corner if he fights Baer.

Resort News . . .

Thought for Today . . .

With beer back this summer . . . the speakeasy proprietor knows now how the owner of a miniature golf course felt . . . last summer.

Tip . . .

Etiquette . . .

A couple of Shady Ladies were drowning their post-mortem sorrows in a Tenth avenue dive. Bad Boliver, one of the boys, had been suddenly stricken with a bad case of ventilation and had left 11 widows . . . all owing room rent. These two were mourning their departed acquaintance in no uncertain terms.

"He was a Prinz," sobbed the brunette.

"Anna perfect shentleman," drooled the brunette, picking the cranberry out of her martini.

"Yer can shay gennleman again, Baby," bellowed the blonde. "Boliver never slugged a dame until after he had been properly innerduced."

Movie Progress . . .

Parents who used to cheer when the cowboys came riding over the hill . . . now have children who applaud when the good looking young doctor runs for the anti-toxin.

Hill Billy . . .

During these lean days in Vaudeville the actors are making every effort to keep the Wolf in the Zoo where it belongs. Many of the acts have organized little road shows and have been playing wildcat dates in the hinterland. Anything to keep going until the talkies blow over. Recently a monologist who does one of those Hill Billy acts with a red wig, overalls and high boots reappeared on 47th St. after a short absence. Obviously his tour had ended abruptly and his friends assembled to get the news.

"I thought you was all booked up," taunted a lay-off.

"So I was," drawled the Hill Bill. "But," he continued, I couldn't stand it."

"The one horse towns too much for you, eh?" chuckled another.

"No. I didn't mind the towns," yapped the H. B. "But when we got so far into the country that the audiences looked at my Hill Billy makeup and started calling me City Chap . . . I quit."

Postscript . . .

The only top for this is the tale of the Ham who got so far into the backwoods that the audience threw owl eggs at the actors.

Meanest Man . . .

Sympathy . . .

Binks and Mame . . . "The Sheik and the Soubrette" . . . had just arrived in New York and the "Apartment Vacant" sign beckoned from the window of the dilapidated brownstone front. Binks and Mame climbed the steps, set down the straw suitcases and knocked timidly.

After a short interval the door opened, just a crevice, and a husky voice said:

"Who's there?"

"Have you any apartments to let?" ventured Binks.

"Are you theatricals?" asked the crevice.

"Yes," replied Binks.

"God help you," said the voice and the door slammed in his face.

Revival . . .

The chorus girl was all agog as the Ile de France docked. "My dear," she confided to her friend, "I was so rushed in London I had to come away without seeing the Economic Parley."

Sideshow . . .

"Nothing wrong, is there?"

Hollywood Drama . . .

The old legit returned to the Casting Agency a Rembrandt of despair. The Office Girl, who had sent him to the Fox lot for a job he needed so badly, looked up as he slumped into the chair.

"What's wrong, Pop?" she said cheerfully. "That retired banker's part was made to order for you."

"Why not?"

"The director wanted me to laugh when I opened the will . . . and I couldn't."

"Don't tell me that things are so tough you can't laugh."

"No, but things are so tough I hocked my false teeth this morning."

Novelesque . . .

She was just another small town girl. She fell in love with a voice on the radio. She ran away from home and came to New York. She learned that the voice belonged to a crooner who was married and had more kids than he could shake a megaphone at. She was heartbroken. She wrote for her fare to go home. Her father refused to send it. She was furious. She resolved to become a great radio singer. She would study. She would show the crooner. She would show her father. She took a job as waitress. Her meager savings were spent for lessons at a school which guaranteed to have her on the air after a six months' course. Three months passed. Tired of the struggle, again she wrote for money to go home. Again her father refused to send it. She was bitter now. Her father would be sorry. She would sing on the radio. She would show the folks back home. Six months passed. She graduated from the radio school. She had a diploma in one hand and the address of Station WOLF in the other. That night she sang. Her father had tuned in accidentally. He heard his daughter sing. She didn't have to write for money. The old man sent her the fare to come home. MORAL . . . It is little stories like this that makes readers turn to the sporting page.

Crusher . . .

They were panning a movie star who had let success rush to his head, where it wouldn't be crowded. "Yes," concluded the first knocker . . . "Nothing good can be said about him that he hasn't already said."

Truth . . .

Overlooked . . .

Here's one Ripley has missed. An armless hitch-hiker arrived here today. Having no thumbs, he stands in the road and sticks his tongue out at passing motorists. Not only has he traveled over three thousand miles but he has been punched in the nose in every state in the country.

Clark to Play Opposite Joan

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 10.—One of the oft-repeated rumors of the last few weeks was that Clark Gable had refused to play the lead opposite Joan Crawford in "Dancing Lady." Hollywood gossips now can forget it, because Clark will go into the picture as soon as he convalesces from his operation for appendicitis.

Mr. Gable

The decision to hold the part open for him was made when physicians reported the actor to be making splendid progress at the Cedars of Lebanon Hospital. Unless complications develop, they believe he will be able to report for work in a couple of weeks.

Sighs of relief greeted the news at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio, where Director Robert Leonard has tried in vain to find an actor to replace Clark in the cast.

And speaking of stellar casts, the Cedars of Lebanon can offer one too. In addition to Gable, the hospital now has Virginia Bruce, William S. Hart, Benny Rubin and Eileen Percy among its patients.

Writing as well as miming pays big dividends to Charlie Chaplin. The comedian is reported to have received $50,000 for his book delivered to a national magazine. . . . Meanwhile, Carlisle Robinson, who used to be publicity director for Charlie, will get in the neighborhood of $15,000 for the British, first American and serial rights of his observations about the little actor with the trick mustache, the trick cane and the big shoes.

Mr. Chaplin

Shyer of publicity than she used to be, Gloria Swanson, accompanied by Michael Farmer, got off the train at San Bernardino, clad in becoming pajamas, and motored in to Hollywood. In a brief stop at Glendale, she paid a visit to her mother. To friends, the actress said her future plans are still uncertain, but that she expects to remain in the film colony for some time.

Is it worth a note in passing that Sue Carol, Adrienne Ames and Ginger Rogers were all wearing black satin in the Miramar the other evening?

Adrienne, whose husband sailed away the day before, after announcing their separation, was accompanied by Bruce Cabot, Sue and Ginger were with Ken Murray and Lew Ayres as usual.

Sunday afternoon the Reginald Barlows were re-married on their thirtieth anniversary with Claude Gillingwater re-enacting his original role of best man. The Stage Guild will present its fifth play, "Manly Man," in the auditorium of the Oakmont High School, Pennsylvania avenue, Oakmont, next Monday and Thursday. The hall is but a few squares from the Willows, where all the previous productions of this group have been presented on a temporary stage, this being objected to by a representative of the State Department of Labor. Subscribers will find their entertainment privileges at the Willows continued. "Manly Man" is by a local playwright, Alfred Golden, and this is its first presentation on any stage. In the cast will be Ralph Wilson, Madeliene Skelly Foust, Lillian Malone, Helen Vrosky, Mrs. Stewart C. McFarland, Harry Ziff and Ralph Twigger.

Cab Calloway, who is to play a dance engagement in Duquesne Garden next Monday night, was a law student for two semesters in a Chicago school. All the while he was earning more than his tuition by playing at clubs and cabarets. That was so lucrative that he figured the income of a young lawyer would be nothing in comparison. So now he struts his stuff before audiences instead of judges and juries. Parts of his program here will be broadcast.

Three-Cornered Moon Means What?

What is a three-cornered moon? No one in Hollywood knows, despite the fact that Paramount is producing a motion picture of that name. The author of the show finally was asked about it, and admitted she didn't know either. When "Three Cornered Moon" was produced on the New York stage Gertrude Tonkonogy, the playwright, hit upon the title as likely to provoke curiosity. She planned to write in a few lines of dialogue to explain the title, but in the rush of rehearsals forgot all about it.

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

The Promise

TWO MEN sat side by side on a prison cot. One, before he had changed his identity for a number, had been a confidence man. His main trouble had always been that he had too much confidence in his own cleverness and too little in that of the police. On two other occasions he had languished in prison cells similar to this one.

The other man was a thief. He was serving his first term. It was he who spoke first.

"Well, Joe," he said morosely, "you'll be gettin' out tomorrow. Gee, I wisht I was you. I gotta rot in this hole for another couple of years. It ain't for myself I mind so much, but I told you about my wife. I can't help worrying about her all the time."

Joe nodded sympathetically.

"Yeh," he said, "I know how you feel, pal. Things are pretty tough for a woman trying to get along alone."

"It ain't as though she was the kind that can stand a lot," the other went on. "She's a timid little thing—Mary is. Not much gumption about her."

He sat staring at his hands for a moment. Then:

"Joe, listen. I want you to do something for me. I want you to promise me that when you get out you'll look her up. You and me have been pretty good pals for the last couple of months. I wish you'd drop around and if she's not getting along okay, will you do what you can to help her a little?"

Joe agreed readily.

"Sure, Jim," he promised. "I'll do that little thing. And don't you go worrying no more. I'll do whatever I can for your wife."

Twenty-four hours later Joe was a free man. The warden had given him a few dollars and a few words of advice. The money he accepted with pleasure. The advice was just so much wasted effort.

Honest labor was, in Joe's life, an unknown quantity. Even his several stretches in jail hadn't shaken his belief that such a disagreeable method of making a living was unnecessary. He was quite certain that he could carve out a grand career for himself in a not-too-honest fashion. And this time, it appeared that he was correct.

Things were breaking beautifully for Joe. For several months he managed to elude the police in various cities. He traveled about the country in royal fashion. It was not until he returned to New York after a very successful trip that he remembered his cell-mate and the promise he had made to him.

Well, a promise was a promise. His wallet was bulging with crisp new bank notes, and he decided, a little impatiently, to make his belated visit and get it over with. He found the scribbled address on a scrap of paper, and went forth to perform his kindly deed.

Mary was living in the cheapest kind of apartment house. Her flat was small and squalid and dark. The girl herself appeared to be none too healthy. There were dark circles under her eyes and her cheeks were gaunt.

She gazed at him with frightened eyes, but when he explained that he was a friend of Jim's she brightened. She asked him question after question, and it was several moments before Joe got a chance to tell her of the reason for his visit.

"You see," he explained, "me and Jim were buddies. And he was afraid you might not be getting along well or something. So he wanted me to come and see if there was anything I could do for you."

Mary stared at him with large and timid eyes.

"It's awful good of you," she said at last. "Things have been pretty tough for me lately."

Joe reached for his wallet, but she shook her head.

"I couldn't take money from you," she protested. "That wouldn't seem right, even though you are a friend of Jim's."

"Then how am I gonna help you?" the man argued. "Jim wouldn't want me to go away leaving you like this."

"Jim left this. It was one of the things the police didn't find. He said I should sell it if I ever needed money. Only I was afraid. And I didn't know where to take it. Do you think you could get some money on it?"

Joe took the box and lifted off the cover. A brooch lay inside and a single stone blazed brightly in its center. He picked it up and studied it carefully. Then he shook his head and made a clucking noise with his tongue.

"Gee," he said ruefully, "you couldn't get hardly anything on this, sister. That stone's only a fair imitation of the real thing. I'm surprised that you didn't know that."

Mary looked downcast.

"I don't know much about such things," she murmured. "Only what Jim said. Well, that makes it kinda tough."

"But look." Joe still held the brooch in his hand. "This is a pretty little thing all right, even if the rock is phoney. And I got a girl friend that'd go crazy for it. I'll tell you what I'll do. You need the dough bad so I'll give you 250 bucks for it."

"But you're only doing that to help me out," the girl protested, "and it don't seem fair."

She shrugged.

"Okay," she murmured. "I hate to take your money, though. The only reason I'm doing it is because I want to take the first train out of this dump for the West. I've got folks there."

Then she smiled.

"I don't know how I'm going to thank you. Here, I'll put it back in the box. If you want to give it for a present, maybe I better do it up nice for you. I got an old piece of tissue paper around somewhere and maybe some ribbon. Gee, Joe, you're sure a good friend."

He waved aside her thanks. Then he laid the bills on the table, and when she returned with the package, he slipped it into his pocket.

"So long," he called. "If there's ever anything else I can do for you, just lemme know."

As he raced down the dark stairs, he was grinning happily. For he was thinking that if Mary ever tried to find him, she would have an immense job on her hands.

"Some dope!" he muttered to himself.

He had bought the brooch for two hundred and fifty dollars, a slight fraction of its true value, and he couldn't imagine anyone being dumb enough not to realize that the stone had been genuine.

He hailed a cab and leaned back with a sigh of satisfaction. He smiled all through the long drive uptown. After making a phone call, he went to his hotel room and flopped on the bed.

Grinning, he started to untie the small package. By now, that dumb dame was on her way West. Suddenly, the grin died. His eyes started from their sockets.

The box was empty! . . .

Rossi, Codos On Screen

THE GLOBE TROTTER

Scenes relating to the great non-stop long distance flight of Lieut. Maurice Rossi and Paul Codos, are shown in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News. Their big Bleriot plane is seen at Floyd Bennett Field ready for the start, loaded with five and one-half tons of fuel, with plane rising slowly with its staggering load. The Globe Trotter gives a description.

In a talk in Washington, Raymond S. Moley, "Brain Trust Chief," tells how he has been appointed by President Roosevelt to aid in the government's campaign against racketeers.

Lieut. Commander Settle's ill-fated stratosphere flight attempt in shown in pictures from Soldiers' Field, Chicago, where 10,000 attend the start in the early dawn. A searchlight plays on the balloon as it soars over A Century of Progress and the city, until it disappears. The next scene shows the deflated balloon in a railroad yard where it landed after a broken gas valve brought it down from 5,000 feet.

The thrilling tennis match for the Wightman Cup at Forest Hills, N. Y., between the United States and British women players, shows the final and deciding singles between Helen Jacobs, of California, and Margaret Scriven, of England. Mrs. Helen Wills Moody is a spectator.

Pictures from Stuttgart, Germany, show 60,000 girl and men athletes in the biggest mass drill ever held.

Japan's bid for increased sea power as announced by her plan to spend $190,000 on 36 new warships is illustrated by a review held by the emperor off Yokahama.

(Note—Owing to the necessity upon theater managers to arrange their programs in time schedules, it is possible that some of the subjects in the above issue of Hearst Metrotone News may not be shown in your theater.)

RAIN PREVENTS PIRATES-CUBS SERIES OPENER

SPORT COMMENT

By James J. Long

JEBY'S CONQUEROR LOOKS REAL CHAMP

THOUGH HE HAD been conceded by fight followers in general at least a fifty-fifty chance to take the New York version of the world middleweight championship from Ben Jeby last night, Lou Brouillard made a better job of it than any one had expected by knocking out the title holder in the seventh round. Few championships have changed hands in more convincing fashion. A clean kayo only clinched the evidence of superiority that Brouillard had shown from the start.

Lou Brouillard

This young French-Canadian, residing in Worcester, Mass., and still in his early twenties, may be hailed as a real fighter and a worthy champion. Though he has been fighting professionally only since 1931, after going through 69 amateur contests without a defeat, he has demonstrated his exceptional class on a number of occasions by defeating men of the caliber of Jimmy McLarnin, Young Jack Thompson, Johnny Indrasanno, Andy Callahan, and others, and he has established a notable record by winning the championship of two divisions, welterweight and middleweight, in his first two and a half years as a professional. Only Tommy Ryan, Kid McCoy, Jimmy Clabby and Mickey Walker ever headed both of those classes.

THE TITLE EVIDENTLY is in worthy hands, and Brouillard's victory is all the more popular because of the fake that Jeby pulled with Gorilla Jones in Cleveland, for which both principals were suspended for a year in N. B. A. territory.

If Brouillard's manager, Maurice Lemoine, keeps his word it won't be long until Pittsburgh fans get a look at the new champion, as the pilot recently agreed to let Brouillard, win or lose against Jeby, appear here at an early date for Promoter John L. Hernon.

ONE EFFECT OF the less lively ball in use in the National League this year is pointed out by Rabbit Maranville. It is a marked increase in the number of double plays made throughout the league. The Rabbit ventures the opinion that a new record is being hung up for two-ply killings.

Maranville offers his own batting experience as evidence of how this comes about. He says he used to knock the lively ball through the infield for hits, but since the ball has been deadened the infielders have time to get in front of grounders and turn them into outs.

THE SIGNING OF Pitcher Remy Kremer by the Oakland club in the Pacific Coast League after the Pirates released him cost another former Buccaneer his job. Outfielder Pete Scott, who came to the Rovers with Sparky Adams from the Cubs in the Kiki Cuyler deal following the 1927 season, was dropped by the Oaks to make room for Kremer. Manager Ray Brubaker believes that three or four of his Oakland players will be purchased by big league clubs. He thinks Art Veltman is the most valuable all-around catcher in the Coast loop, and rates Cookie Lavagetto as equal to any of the second basemen out there. Others whom he is boosting for sale are Pitchers Roy Joiner and Wee Ludolph. Oakland pitchers stopped two notable hitting streaks this year. Young Ed Walsh halted Joe Di Maggio after 61 games, and Joiner, a southpaw, checked Jim Oglesby after 44 contests.

Fred Heimach

ANOTHER VETERAN MAJOR league pitcher said to be on his way out is Fred Heimach, Brooklyn southpaw, who, like Tom Zachary and Eppa Rixey, used to make a lot of trouble for the Pirates. In 1931 he beat the locals four times. Eastern advices say Heimach soon may receive his unconditional release.

Freddie, now 31, has made several trips between the majors and minors. The A's sent him to Moline and later recalled him. The Red Sox sent him to St. Paul and the Yankees brought him back. The Yanks sent him to Toledo and the Dodgers brought him back. If he goes out again he hardly will return. A broken bone in one of his feet this year hurt his chances of staying up longer.

A BUNT IN a city league game of playground ball, or mushball, in Detroit, was carried to the high court of the Municipal Athletic Commission. Hubert G. Johnson, secretary to the commission, umpired a game and allowed a runner to score from third base on a bunted ball, though calling out the batter, as playground ball rules prohibit bunting.

Clarence E. Brewer, commissioner of recreation, upheld Johnson on a protest, and the protesting club then appealed to the commission court. The latter reversed Brewer and Johnson, ruling that a run could not score when the batter was automatically out for bunting and ordering the game played over.

CARROL KNOWLES, fullback on the Yale eleven of 1914 when the great Frank Hinkey was coaching the Blue, says he gets a big laugh out of all the chatter about the great strides that have been made in lateral passing in American football since the World War. Knowles remarks that persons making such claims never saw the Yale team of 19 years ago relay the ball downfield as though by black magic, and that the secret of applying the lateral pass to American football in most effective fashion died with Hinkey. According to the old fullback, Hinkey conceived and developed the idea of incorporating that feature of rugby into American play, brought the McGill rugby team from Canada to New Haven for a week's workout with the Elis, and, with the assistance of Coach Shaughnessy, of McGill, perfected a system of lateral passing that baffled all opponents.

"WE WERE TAUGHT the correct rugby pass, never used by present-day American lateral tossers," Knowles explained to George Trevor. "It was a two-hand, underhand scooping motion, somewhat akin to alley bowling. The ball rarely traveled any great distance through the air.

"Rather, it was handed smartly from man to man so that the chance of fumbling was minimized—a true pass, as contrasted with a throw. Our so-called forward pass is not a pass at all, in the precise meaning of the term, but rather a pitch or a heave. American lateral passers chuck the ball from a shoulder-high position, like the push-pass in basketball. That is not the rugby method. Hinkey gave us the real system, and it has not been equaled since."

COMPARING PRIMO CARNERA with some of the heavyweight champions of the past, Tommy Burns, himself the holder of the title from 1906 until Jack Johnson defeated him in Australia in 1908, told Ed Hughes he believed the big Italian could have beaten several of them.

Tommy Burns

Burns said it would have been pretty close between Jeffries and Dempsey, just about an even pick, but that Carnera would have defeated Johnson, and also Willard. Tunney, he thinks, might have been too smart for Primo. He figures Sharkey is washed up, but believes Baer has a fine chance of defeating Carnera because of the Californian's size, punch and flair for slugging.

"CARNERA REALLY HAS improved," Burns said, "and I'll tell you why and how. He has shortened his punch, and may I say that I helped him? I really did. A few days before the Sharkey fight I visited Primo in his camp. He was working on a big sandbag. To my mind, the sandbag never benefited any fighter's punch. You have to use the light, fast bag to develop timing and short, snappy punches. There is nothing like it. Well, I got Carnera off that bag and onto the light one. 'Shorten your right-hand punch,' I told him. 'The trouble with you is you're trying to hit too hard. A fellow of your size doesn't have to hit sledgehammer blows—just short ones, with snap and your weight behind them.' How much he improved was shown when he flattened Sharkey with that short right uppercut."

LOU BROUILLARD SEEKS THIRD RING TITLE

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Having won the middleweight title from Ben Jeby less than 24 hours ago, Lou Brouillard, Worcester (Mass.) slugger, expected to sign this afternoon to meet Maxie Rosenbloom for the light-heavyweight title in New York, under the promotion of Tim Mara.

That was the announcement made today by the champion's manager, Maurice Lemoine, who revealed that Brouillard is determined to win a third title. The Worcester youngster formerly held the welterweight crown. He said:

"We are willing to accept suitable terms from Mara, but there must be an equal division of the purse. Lou is a champion, and so is Rosenbloom, and on that fact there should be an even break in the cut for both fighters.

"If Rosenbloom insists on Brouillard taking the challenger's end while he draws down the champion's cut of the gate, we'll turn down the match."

JEBY EASY VICTIM

Lemoine expressed himself as certain that his fighter would win the 175-pound title.

The Jeby fight was a shambles. Jeby never had a chance against the crashing lefts to the body and jaw of the challenger, nor could he evade his popping rights. The end came after 2 minutes 21 seconds of the seventh round. Body smashes had him ready for the knockout as the sixth round ended.

In the seventh, three straight rights snapped his head back and left him blinking stupidly. Without further hesitation, Brouillard hooked a series of lefts to the head, driving the other before him at a stumbling run. They clinched. At the break, two more lefts started Jeby toward the floor. Then the right—and oblivion.

Jeby was up at eight, but pitched forward on his face as the referee warned Brouillard to stay back.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE HUMANIST'S ELECTRIC CHAIR — Dr. Alphonso David Rockwell, who died in April, 1933, at the age of 93, was a specialist in electro-therapeutics and in neurology. He was an opponent of capital punishment, but favord a more humane method of carrying out death sentences than by hanging. The electric chair was the result of the experiments conducted by Dr. Rockwell in the Edison Laboratories. He was one of the three commissioners appointed to give advice on the establishment of executions by electricity. A WHALE OF A VESSEL—When I was in the harbor of Cape Town, South Africa, in April of this year, a strange-looking vessel docked at the supply depot. A unique feature of the ship was its stern, which was almost entirely open, with a steel-plate skid running below the water line. It was the whaler "Lancing," of Narvik, Norway, bound for its home port with a full cargo of whaling products, after having spent a season in Antarctic waters. I was informed by its skipper that they had taken in 1,113 whales during a single season and they already had loaded several tankers with oil from this remarkable catch.

TEAMS TO PLAY BARGAIN BILL SATURDAY

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Rain today prevented the opening battle of the three-game series between the Pittsburgh Pirates and Chicago Cubs. As a result of the postponement, the clubs will play a doubleheader on Saturday.

Considerable importance is attached to the present series inasmuch as the Pirates are only a half-game ahead of the Bruins in the National League pennant race.

The Pirates dropped their second exhibition tilt in as many days yesterday as they lost, 2 to 1, to the New Castle Independents.

Fred Shaffer, a 17-year-old hurler, went the route for New Castle, turning the Buccos back with two hits, one by Suhr and one by Regan. Harris gave up six in the six innings he worked and Owen Berry, of Beaver Falls, who finished for the Pirates, held the home boys hitless.

A double by Biondi and a single by Green in the third inning tied the score after the Pirates had counted when Traynor scored on Suhr's triple in the second. New Castle scored the winning run in the fifth when Biondi hit a home run. The score:

BASEBALL COMEDY

—By NICK ALTROCK—

BOSTON, Aug. 10.—Today a fan said to me: "Who is your favorite umpire?"

I said: "Old Jack O'Gorman."

Nick Altrock

The fan said: "But old Jack O'Gorman is dead."

I said: "That's why he is my favorite umpire."

He said: "How do you find the umpiring this season?"

I said: "You look for it with a microscope."

He said: "Don't you think all the decisions are impartial?"

I said: "That's just the trouble with them. Did you ever see a club that was satisfied with an even break?"

He said: "It that why players always argue with umpires?"

I said: "The only reason they argue with umpires is for practice."

He said: "Practice for what?"

I said: "Practice for going home, arguing with their wives and losing the decision again."

He said: "Did you ever hear of any player winning an argument with an umpire?"

I said: "Yes—back in 1907 an umper ordered me to the shower baths. But when I got there the plumbing was busted, so I didn't take a shower after all. But that's the only case I ever heard of."

Scott May Watch Gehrig Break Mark

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—When Lou Gehrig, New York Yankee first baseman, establishes a new major league record for playing in consecutive games, as he is scheduled to do—barring injuries and postponements—against the St. Louis Browns here next Tuesday, the present record-holder is expected to witness the performance.

Everett Scott, former Red Sox and Yankee infielder, who starred in 1,307 straight games before creeping age forced him out, has been invited by the Browns' management to attend the game.

Scott, who began his string back in 1917 and retired May 6, 1925, just a month before Gehrig started to work, now operates a bowling establishment at Fort Wayne, Ind.

Hudkins' Assailant Ordered Set Free

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Dick Bennett, night club operator, will not be prosecuted for the wounding of Ace Hudkins, former boxer, officers have announced.

Kenneth Thomas, deputy district attorney, said questioning of five patrons of the club in which Hudkins was shot early Sunday morning convinced him Bennett acted in self-defense. Police were ordered to release Bennett.

Miss Jacobs Won't Risk Amateur Status

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Just to make sure that she will not violate the amateur code of tennis, Helen Jacobs will not make her scheduled appearance at a New York department store today to autograph copies of her book on tennis.

An advertisement of such an appearance, identifying her as a "famous tennis champion," appeared in early editions of yesterday's afternoon papers and caused quite a flurry of excitement, coming as it did close behind the announcement of an investigation into the amateur status of Ellsworth Vines, Jr.

Stirring Finishes Mark Oval Races

Stirring finishes featured the weekly meeting of the Schenley Matinee Club at the Oval yesterday afternoon, two split and two straight heat triumphs being recorded.

After losing the first heat of the initial pacing event, Miss Dorothy Kay came back to score in the second and third. The free-for-all mixed race was won by Chaparail in straight heats and the third event, a trot, was taken in split heats by Ruth Richards, who won the first and second heats and finished second to Donna B's Son in the third. The finale went to Mary Victoria in straight heats.

NATS EVEN CRUCIAL SERIES

BRAVES PASS CARDINALS IN SENIOR LOOP

Associated Press.

A great comeback by the Washington Senators had ended their "crucial" series with the New York Yankees all square today and the fans began to turn their attention to the National League, where the Pittsburgh Pirates and Chicago Cubs were about to open a duel for second place, which might carry one or the other right up behind the pace-setting New York Giants.

The Senators and Monte Weaver turned back the Yanks, 4 to 1, in their final clash yesterday to regain the rest of the ground they lost in Monday's doubleheader, and give them a three-game lead.

WEAVER IN FORM

Weaver, who has been out of action most of the season with a sore arm, let the Yanks down with seven safeties, pitched no-hit ball from the fourth until Babe Ruth connected in the ninth. Washington took the lead in the sixth, scoring two runs off Left Gomez on Joe Kuhel's single after a hit, an error by the Yankee flinger and an intentional pass had crammed the corners.

The Cubs set the stage for their struggle with the second-place Pittsburgh club by pasting their old teammate, Burleigh Grimes, in the first inning and defeating the St. Louis Cardinals, 10 to 7. The victory left them only a half game behind the Pirates and 3½ behind New York as both clubs were idle.

Grimes yielded four hits and Chicago made them good for five runs when Babe Herman topped off the rally with his fourteenth homer of the season.

BRAVES PASS CARDS

The Boston Braves took advantage of the Cards' defeat to move into fourth place with a 3-2 victory over the Phillies. Ben Cantwell kept the Phils blows scattered and won his own game in the fifth by laying down a neat bunt on a squeeze play to drive in the deciding run. A homer by Pinky Whitney, an ex-Philly, accounted for the other two.

The Boston Red Sox, who have made quite a habit of beating the Philadelphia Athletics lately, did it again by an 8-4 count as Lefty Lloyd Brown played a whole ball game by himself. He not only pitched the full distance but smacked a homer and two singles.

Washington Typo Nine Near Title

DETROIT, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—The apparently invincible defending champions from Washington scored a 9-to-3 victory over New York, heretofore unbeaten, yesterday, and became an odds-on favorite to repeat their triumph of last year in the union printers' baseball tournament.

Three other teams still are in the running, however, and play must continue until all but one team have been defeated twice.

Minneapolis-St. Paul put out Chicago, 12 to 2, and Detroit eliminated Cleveland, 17 to 8.

The Twin Cities meet New York today, the loser to drop out of the tournament. Detroit plays Washington and must win to avert elimination, while Washington has won all its four games.

Paavo Nurmi's Wife To Seek Divorce

LONDON, Aug. 10. — Paavo Nurmi may be a pretty fast chap on a cinder track, but he's pretty slow at home.

SANDLOT GAMES CALLED OFF

Rain which fell throughout the day wiped out the schedule of sandlot games carded in the district this evening.

Books was scheduled to play at Whitaker in the City League, but the contest was called off early when the downpour made the field unsuitable for a contest.

An independent game between the Laffey Ambassadors and the Homestead Grays at Frazier Field, Oakland also was affected.

The Edgewood team, of the Greater Pittsburgh circuit, has disbanded, making the Parmalee team the virtual champion. Teams wishing to finish out the season in Edgewood's place are requested to communicate with the league director at Atlantic 3500 at once.

Other teams in the league may sign the Edgewood players, three to a club, before Saturday.

Tomorrow evening, at Carnegie High School Field, the Akron Goodyears meet the Wilson club. The game will be called at 6:30 o'clock.

On the tray, the two necklaces appear identical. Both seem to have the fire and brilliance of true diamonds; many adjectives could be used in describing them. But the reputable jeweler will tell you that one is genuine . . . the other, just a cheap imitation.

IN GASOLINES, as in diamonds, you will sometimes find imitations. Often, you can spot them by the insincere and extravagant claims made by their backers. To get honest values, you should patronize those companies you know are reliable.

ATLANTIC has made petroleum products of the highest quality since 1865. Its reputation for fair dealing extends to all parts of the world. In Pennsylvania, the motorists buy more than twice as much ATLANTIC WHITE FLASH as any other gasoline . . . proof of the value they find!

GOOGIN LEADS ESPINOSA IN P. G. A. PLAY

COAST GOLFER HOLDS 6-UP ADVANTAGE

BLUE MOUND CLUB, MILWAUKEE, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Ripping par to shreds with a sensational 31, four under par, Willie Goggin, a surprising shotmaker, from Salada Beach, Cal., soared to a six-up lead over Al Espinosa, of Akron, O., at the quarter turn of their 36-hole battle to enter the quarter-finals of the National Professional golf championship today.

Johnny Revolta, Menominee, Mich., 2 up on Paul Runyan, White Plains, N. Y.

It was clear and cool, the fairways were fast and only a harmless wind stroked the course.

Jimmy Hines, co-medalist from New York, and Henry Picard, a par-crasher from Charleston, S. C., were the first pair to open the fight and were followed after five-minute intervals by the other 14, among them Gene Sarazen, who tackled Light Horse Harry Cooper, of Chicago, and Dutra, who faced strong opposition from Johnny Farrell, of New York, 1928 National Open champion. Another match found Johnny Revolta, Menominee (Mich.) youngster, paired against Paul Runyan, Ryder Cup star, from White Plains, N. Y.

HINES TAKES LEAD

Hines started by winning the first hole in regulation par 4 as the Charleston pro drove to the deep rough and could not get the shot back.

Pickard, dropping a 15-foot putt for a birdie 3, evened the match on the second hole, but hooked badly to the rough off the next two tees and lost the holes to par, falling 2 down.

Willie Goggin, the long-distance clouter from Salada Beach, Cal., who burned up the course yesterday to dispose of Leo Diegel, started out with three par 4s to snatch a 1-up lead on Al Espinosa, of Akron, O., 1928 finalist. Al lost the first hole with a looping hook to a trap.

With a large gallery charging at his heels, Revolta bounded to a 2-up margin over Runyan with par shooting after three holes. He took the first with a shaky 5, one over par, as Runyan missed the green with his approach and then muffed a three-foot putt for a tie, won the second with a 10-foot putt that snared a birdie 3 and halved the third in par 4.

COOPER WINS FIRST

Both Cooper and Sarazen hooked to the trap on the first hole and needed 3 to get on, but Cooper canned a 10-foot putt to go 1 up.

He three putted the second and Gene sailed in with an easy par 4 to get even. A pretty chip shot saved a half in par four for Sarazen on the third.

Ed Dudley, Wilmington, Del., and Clarence Clark, Bloomfield, N. J., were even through three holes, while Tom Creavy, 1931 champion, shooting par, soared 2 up on Frank Walsh, 1932 finalist, after six holes.

Hines made the quarter turn in even par 35, to hold a 1-up advantage over Picard.

Creavy shot straight par and stayed two up through the front nine, saving a half on the ninth by sinking a 15-foot putt after Walsh had stuck a 150-yard approach two feet off the cup.

Vincent Eldred, of the Highland Country Club, Pittsburgh, the only entry from that city to qualify for match play, was eliminated in the first round yesterday by Gene Sarazen, 8 and 7.

COAST GOLFER ADVANCES

Miss Virginia Van Wie, Chicago, defeated Jane Armstrong, Chicago, 3 and 2.

McVey, Litfin, Ray Given Suspensions

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—The State Athletic Commission today announced indefinite suspension of seven boxers and one second for violations of rules. The boxers are:

Danny Dempsey and Michael Fritzie, Scranton; John Canzoneri, Alpha, N. J.; Jim McVey and Nat Litfin, Pittsburgh; John Martin, New Philadelphia, and Frank Damian, Nesquehoning.

The second is Johnny Ray, Pittsburgh.

Rain Delays Play In Culver Tourney

ALEX SHACOSKI, NORTH PARK CHAMPION, HALVES EIGHTEENTH HOLE TO MAINTAIN 1 UP LEAD OVER CARL KAUFFMANN

RAIN PREVENTS GOLF FINALE

By TOM BIRKS

The heavy downpour today caused postponement of the second 18 holes of the interparks golf match between Carl F. Kauffmann, South Park champion, and Alex Shacoski, North Park champion, scheduled for South Park. It will be played tomorrow.

Shacoski led yesterday's play over his home course, finishing with a margin of 1 up.

SHACOSKI HOLDS LEAD

At no time during the match at North Park yesterday was Shacoski behind. At times he was a trifle wild from the tees, but he always made up for this wildness with brilliant iron shots. At the end on the first nine holes the North Park champion was 2 up.

Kauffmann won the tenth and lost the eleventh again by poor putting. He won the sixteenth when Shacoski pushed his second shot from the rough into a trap, and the last two holes were halved.

The Shannopin Country Club's golf team squared matters with the Butler Country Club yesterday in the second and final interclub match of the season, winning 19 to 8. Butler took the first match, played at Butler earlier in the season, 11½ to 5½.

The qualifying round of the annual Greene County Country Club title tourney gets under way today. The qualifying round will be completed by Sunday, with match play scheduled for next week.

DR. STEGEMAN WINS

Dr. Gebhard Stegeman, professor of chemistry at the University of Pittsburgh, paced a field of 29 golfers yesterday in the annual Pitt faculty tournament, taking both low gross and low net scores with a round of 76-9—67.

L. E. Jackson and H. K. Salzberg, fellows of the Mellon Institute, tied for second low net with 69's, with gross scores of 98 and 95 respectively.

GEORGE SAUSCE INJURED

Oakland friends of George Susce, first-string catcher of the Beaumont (Texas League) club, learned today that the former Schenley High School athlete was lost to his club for an indefinite period as a result of an accident in which he broke his collar bone in a close play at the plate.

'29 Derby Victor Entered in Claiming Race

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Clyde Van Dusen, the stubby little son of Man O'War, which galloped through the rain and mud at Churchill Downs to triumph in the 1929 Kentucky Derby, was entered today in a $1,500 claiming race at Hawthorne.

Little Clyde, strong of heart but weak of leg, never accomplished anything of note after his sensational victory over Naishapur, Panchio, Windy City and Blue Larkspur, which was worth $53,690. He was beaten in the 1929 American Derby and broke down soon afterward. He was thrown out of training, but tried a come back as a 4-year-old, only to fail because of the weakness of his legs.

Today, a 7-year-old, he was entered by his owner, Trainer Clyde Van Dusen, of Charles T. Fisher's Dixiana stable, for whom he was named, with such ordinary platers as Jacob's Ladder, Know-Me-Gnome, Rowdy Boy, Modern Maiden and Dunes, in a claiming event, the last on the program.

OUIMET'S GOLF

By FRANCIS OUIMET

Former United States Amateur and Open Champion.

With the British and United States Open championships out of the way, the next event of major importance is the National Amateur contest, where the brilliant Canadian golfer, C. Ross Somerville, will be called upon to defend his title against a fine young field.

When a player wins a championship he immediately is installed as a favorite to repeat, but only those who have succeeded in winning realize the difficulties confronting the champion. No one can question the skill or competitive ability of Somerville, but his main job will be that of having his game at its peak when the big test arrives — not an easy thing, by any means, to do.

Francis Ouimet

During the reign of Travis, Travers and Evans there were few golfers capable of giving these fellows a hand match in a week of play, but today, with so many fine players, no one individual can claim superiority over his field. Bobby Jones was in a class by himself, and consequently due to his wonderful play he could live up to expectations and beat down the opposition consistently, but now there is no one or two who can hope to do this or approach Jones' record; at least no one that I can think of.

GOODMAN IN LIMELIGHT

A year ago Johnny Goodman was just a golfer who might one day win a big event, but until he actually succeeded he could be looked upon merely as a potential champion. His play throughout the Baltimore tournament established him as a great golfer. Then this year he turned back the cream of the professionals in the Open, and therefore he must take his place with Somerville as the outstanding favorite. Assuming they qualify, and they certainly should, both Goodman and Somerville will face plenty of opposition. Years ago the mere fact that you were called upon to meet a big champion was sufficient to reduce your skill to the minimum.

I well remember my first match against Jerome Travers, in 1913, when he was the defender. It resembled, I suppose, the prima donna making her first public appearance. To Travers it was only another championship, and to me an epoch-making event. Travers, with well-controlled nerves, could quickly strike his best form, whereas the novice must control those nerves before he could begin to turn his thoughts to the game itself. The result was evident. The seasoned campaigner could hop into an early lead, while the inexperienced opponent was groping about, and when the latter finally settled down the match was usually decided.

YOUNG STARS CONFIDENT

Those days are no more. Confident young lads with a fine swing and a sound game have little respect for the champion insofar as worrying over the match. Their only thought is to knock him off, and that is why the champion's lot is a hard one. As a matter of fact, the champion knows each opponent is gunning for his title, and he realizes also that he must be at his best, not for one day, but for six. Even then he is not so sure that some some opponent will drop a few long putts, in which case he is defeated, unless he does the same.

Experience was a vital factor in the old days against inexperience simply because the inexperienced opponent could be depended upon to beat himself, either at the start or at a critical point. Again I say experience can be discounted entirely when one takes into consideration the high caliber of present-day competition. At the height of his golfing career and when he was thought to be supreme, and I am sure he was, Bobby Jones was beaten in the first round by Johnny Goodman at Pebble Beach, and Goodman at the time was an inexperienced golfer compared to Bobby.

WILL TO WIN ASSET

Lack of experience must take a back seat for the fighting heart. The determination that goes with the will to win will more than overcome inexperience. There are dozens of great young players in the country any one of whom can play well enough to win our amateur championship. Criticisms have been directed toward the United States Golf Association from time to time in their selection of a Walker Cup team, and I personally have felt that these have been extremely unfair. A Walker Cup team consists of eight players with two alternates, 10 men in all, and with so many splendid prospects it may readily be seen that the task of choosing a Walker Cup team is not a simple one. At best, about all the association can do is to name 10 men who, by their competitive record, have proven themselves worthy of a position on the team.

Whether it is Goodman or Somerville who will win the championship remains to be seen, but the fact remains there will be plenty of competition from all sides, regardless of who the winner may turn out to be.

Much abo about a matter of $30—that's what the hearing of the North Braddock Bowl Boxing Club before the State Athletic Commission in the Koppers Building today amounted to.

The club asked for the hearing to have a showdown on a published statement that it was to be suspended for not meeting is obligations in connection with its Sammy Slaughter-Jack King fight last week. This was taken to mean that the purses had not been paid.

The commission denied being responsible for any such impression, and said the only point at issue was the difference between $50 expenses promised Slaughter and his manager, Bud Taylor, to stay over from Thursday night, when the show was postponed, until the following Monday and $20 paid Taylor after the fight. Matchmaker Jules Beck admitted he had promised Taylor the $50, but the club refused to pay it, giving him the same amount asked for by Red Mason and his fighter, King.

CLUB SUSPENDED

Until the club pays the $30, it stands suspended. Promoter Joe Mazer intimated he would drop out of the Bowl enterprise, and Beck said he would pay the $30 and probably would stage bouts himself at the Bowl.

Other questions were brought up by Attorney Leonard Mazer, representing his brother, but the hearing resolved itself in the end into the mere matter of the $30.

The public sale of tickets for the Ted Yarosz-Vince Dundee fight at Forbes Field, one week from next Monday night, opened today with branch offices scattered for the convenience of patrons. The pasteboards are being handled at Forbes Field, Hickey Park, Spalding's, Seventh Avenue Hotel, McGirr's Shop in McKeesport and at bus stations.

DUNDEE BOXES TONIGHT

A checkup of Yarosz' record reveals the fact that he will be gunning for his seventieth victory in this bout. The count so far is 69 wins, one defeat and one draw. Eddie (Kid) Wolfe boasts both the lone victory over Ted and the draw with him. Yarosz was scheduled to arrive home today from New York, where he witnessed the Ben Jeby-Lou Brouillard title fight last night. An effort is being made to have Dundee come here five days in advance of the local battle and establish training quarters. Dundee boxes Danny Devlin, of Allentown, in a bout at Paterson, N. J., tonight, a tuneup to see how his recently injured ankle will stand up.

School for Ring Referees Opened in California

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Referees will learn some of the fine points of their profession in the opening class here tonight of the "California State Athletic Commission College for Referees."

State Commissioners Leslie C. Kelley and John Hassler, founders and co-chancellors of the "college," have "invited" all referees in the adjacent Northern California section to attend. Those who don't accept the invitation may find themselves out of work.

Chaplain Kelley said those who pass examinations will receive certificates and preference in work. Those who fail to attend or do not pass will be designated as "reserve" referees.

The opening session will be an informal affair with a doctor and an old-timer who refereed in the turbulent 20-round days laying groundwork for future study.

Jim Griffin, one of the best known referees of his day, will put the boys through their paces on ring technique and Dr. James Bush Herring will explain the cause and effect of punches, high, low or otherwise.

STOCKS LOSE PART OF EARLY ADVANCE

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Stocks hesitated somewhat today, after an early display of buoyancy, and forenoon gains of 1 to 3 or more points were either shaded substantially or replaced with small losses.

Trading was quite brisk in the morning, but the volume tended to dwindle as prices began to slip. Profit-taking was fairly well absorbed. The slow-down followed publication of the United States Steel Corporation's backlog, which disclosed a July recession a trifle larger than expected. Grains again advanced both in Chicago and Winnipeg and cotton was fairly steady. The dollar eased a bit in foreign exchange dealings. Bonds were moderately irregular.

The alcohol and farm shares were given a run-up at one time, but they later receded with other groups.

The decrease of 86,546 tons in United States Steel's unfilled orders was attributed in some quarters to pressing shipments to consumers during the month rather than to a falling off of business. In the week ended yesterday bank clearings also showed a decline, with the total at the lowest since the middle of May.

STEEL TONNAGE DOWN 86,546

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corporation decreased 86,546 tons in July to a total of 2,020,125 tons, the corporation announced today. This compares with a June increase in backlog of 176,856 tons, which was the largest reported since early in 1930.

Most quarters had looked for a small change in the tonnage with guesses about evenly divided as between gain and loss. Continuance of a high rate of mill shipments during the month in the face of reported slowing down of buying in some directions formed the basis of estimates of a decline.

Tobacco Averages 13.48 Cents at Sale

LUMBERTON, N. C., Aug. 10.—(AP.)—An average struck for one row across a warehouse as sales began today on the Lumberton Tobacco Market was 13.48 cents a pound.

The row appeared to contain tobacco of about the average offered for sale and led to belief the general average for the first day's sales would be between 13 and 14 cents a pound.

Stocks Again Being Bought; Reason Told

By B. C. FORBES

Mr. Forbes

Obviously, the great majority of owners of securities are no longer under compulsion to part with them. Obviously, also, liquidation of "frozen assets" by banks has been pretty well completed.

Under these circumstances, it is not astonishing that quotations yesterday advanced. Far more people than popularly imagined still have money—America's savings deposits greatly over-top those of any other people. Now that hysteria has passed, many individuals and families are wondering what they should do with their funds.

Happily, there is a tendency to spend rationally. As price advances become more numerous—as they inevitably will—this tendency should become more notable.

If our all-embracing recovery plan succeeds, if employment is expanded, if business increases, if prices are raised, if prosperity reappears, current quotations for stocks and second-grade bonds will naturally rise.

Again, should there be a hitch, a lurch, President Roosevelt is scheduled to resort to currency inflation. In that event, stock and commodity prices would logically soar—at least for a time.

Under all these circumstances, it is perfectly understandable why there has been little voluntary parting with stocks and why purchasing is again coming into evidence.

WHAT WAS said here about air-conditioning the other day has brought many communications. Extracts:

President Frank W. Smith, New York Edison:

"Always interested in your column, I was particularly impressed by your statements regarding air conditioning. I think the entire electrical industry should be, and I believe to a great extent is, actively engaged in the development of this particular application. But I think much more might be done by department stores directing attention to the installation of air-conditioning equipment on their premises.

"The other night we were obliged to remain in town and so decided to attend a moving picture theater. But it was so uncomfortable that we were unable to remain for the entire performance.

"I am referring your comments to our commercial people as well as to our advertising forces."

President Allston Sargent, Campbell Metal Window Corporation:

"If the government would do something to promote the air-condition industry it is possible that it would eventually use almost as many men as the automobile industry.

"Let us suppose, say, $300,000 were loaned to a dozen buildings, either office buildings or apartment houses, to condition each room, the owner to pay over a period of 10 years, plus 4 per cent interest. The additional cost to him would be very slight. The health of the nation would be greatly benefited and of each $500 spent, $300 would be wages."

"The way the home-owners and business men have accepted air-conditioning within the last ninety days definitely indicates that the country in going on the 'cold' standard."

DID YOU know that "air-conditioning is proving a boon to victims of pollen hay fever and asthma by bringing cool dry climate into hot and humid areas from which sufferers formerly had to flee?"

DON'T KEEP money in the bank or anywhere else if you have bills to pay. Pay them. This will put people back to work, hasten prosperity's return.

MANY WHO thought they were contracting for raw materials, supplies, finished goods for future requirements are finding they greatly underrated demand. They are reordering to avert a scarcity.

Commission Fixes 'Mop' Officials' Pay

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—The Interstate Commerce Commission today fixed at $36,000 a year the maximum salary to be paid L. W. Baldwin as trustee of the Missouri Pacific Railroad under the new voluntary bankruptcy act. Baldwin is former president of the road.

The salary of Guy A. Thompson, another trustee, was placed at $25,000, and that of Edward J. White, counsel for the trustee, at $18,000.

TURN IN MARKET LIKELY SEQUEL TO LULL

By LEWIS HANEY

Professor of Economics, New York University.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Technically and from the viewpoint of market action, the outstanding question now concerns the significance of the dull trading.

Volume has fallen to low levels, and this should mean that a turn in one direction or the other is in the making. Which way?

One pertinent question is, is the dullness occurring on a rally or on a decline? Strangely enough this is not easy to say. The answer depends upon whether the market is still in the course of its rebound from the July break, or has recently been showing some attempt at a mild secondary decline.

If the latter is the case, the recent small volume of trading is probably to be regarded as a favorable symptom. It would indicate that little liquidation remains to be done, and that people are still disposed to hold stocks.

FORECASTS DIFFICULT

One difficulty in reaching a conclusion is due to the abnormal conditions which now prevail. The prevalence of artificial control over business and of new restrictions on trading in stocks and commodities must make one hesitate to draw conclusions.

But it still seems barely possible that the market is in a position somewhat similar to that of early October last year. At that time the volume of trading had fallen to similar low levels. Stocks were then moving sideways after a rebound from the September break.

Furthermore, the averages were forming one of those "triangles" which are sometimes significant to chart readers. And a somewhat similar formation may now be seen. (A downward move, however, is not clearly indicated, as it was then.)

EARLY MOVE SEEN

I feel that we should either have a move one way or another in a few days, which would be a significant break out of this triangle, or else the market will continue in a narrow trading range until after Labor Day.

This reasoning suggests that one should continue on the side lines pending a sufficiently pronounced move to show which way the market is going to jump. (Of course, if there is no jump, the side lines position is satisfactory.)

INFLATION FACTOR

One of the most important market factors continues to be the widespread opinion that it is only a question of time before inflationary tactics are again resorted to. This state of mind is not conducive to selling. It will lead people to hold stocks. It suggests buying on dips those issues which are most likely to benefit by a further depreciation of the currency.

Such issues are probably to be found among the gold mines, metals, construction materials, machinery and selected chemicals. Personally I can see little reason to favor utilities and rails, in so far as the inflation factor is concerned. And most store stocks would seem to be in for some trouble between rising wholesale prices and consumer resistance to higher retail prices.

NARROW RANGE LIKELY

I am inclined to doubt that we will hear much about actual currency inflation until further government financing is out of the way. The administration may believe in inflation, but even Profs. Warren and Rogers must know that it discourages the purchase of government bonds by investors.

With dollar devaluation staring us in the face, who wants to buy any long-term dollar bond at or near par?

On the whole, I am inclined to look for a narrow fluctuating market for some time yet, which suggests that traders should be content with small profits.

WHEAT PRICES RISE ON CODE

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—Decided upturns in grain values took place early today. Leading traders said the national code tentatively agreed to for government future dealings on grain exchanges was exceedingly broad and liberal and would encourage belief in a free, open, competitive market.

Starting 3/8-1 1/8 cents higher, wheat afterward made additional gains. Corn opened 1/4-3/8 cents up, and subsequently rose further.

Helping the wheat market to mount was an improved demand for immediate delivery of wheat, offerings of which were scarce, despite the good sized stocks at terminal centers.

Meanwhile, talk continued that the United States and Canadian government crop reports, due after the close today, would confirm private estimates of huge losses in all cereals.

STOCK MARGINS COMPUTED ON DEBITS

The recent ruling of the New York Stock Exchange that the margin on customers' debit balances under $5,000 must be 50 per cent and over $5,000 30 per cent has been widely misinterpreted, inquiry in trading circles disclosed. The general misconstruction of the ruling is that customers are permitted to borrow only 50 per cent of the market value of their securities if their debit balance is under $5,000 and 70 per cent of the market value if their debit balance is over $5,000. This deduction is erroneous because the ruling specifically states that the margin is to be computed upon the Debit Balance.

Under the committee's new ruling, the broker is permitted to loan his customers 66⅔ per cent of the market value of the securities, where the debit balance is less than $5,000 and 76.92 per cent of the market value where the debit balance is more than $5,000.

HOW THE RULE WORKS

In order that the average individual may understand the manner in which the broker will compute new margins, two examples follow:

Example No. 1—Debit balance less than $5,000.

If a customer purchases, through his broker to be carried on margin, 100 Radio at 8 and 100 Anaconda at 16, 100 Montgomery Ward at 24,—total cost of his purchase would be $4,800, excluding commissions. The broker is permitted to loan this customer 66⅔ per cent of $4,800, or $3,200. The customer gives his broker a check for $1,600 and his debit balance is reduced to $3,200, or the customer has a margin of $1,600 with his broker, which is equal to 50 per cent of his debit balance.

The old requirements on stocks selling between $5 and $10 was 50 per cent; between $10 and $20, $5 per share, and above $20 per share, 25 per cent.

Example No. 2—Debit balances more than $5,000.

If customer purchases 200 Radio at 8, 200 Anaconda at 16 and 200 Montgomery Ward at 24, the total cost would be $9,600, including commissions. The broker is permitted to loan this customer 76.92 per cent of $9,600. The customer gives his broker check for $2,216, and his debit balance is reduced to $7,384, or the customer has $2,216 margin with his broker, which is equal to 30 per cent of his debit balance.

WIDE MARGIN SAFEST

As outlined above, these are the minimum requirements; the committee says that the broker is not permitted to place a loan value on securities selling at less than $5 per share and that securities not listed on a recognized exchange must be amply margined. The committee also states that an unusual amount of stock of the same kind or an inactive stock must carry larger marginal requirements.

Undoubtedly trading by marginal accounts will not be curtailed because of the committee's new ruling on margin requirements, except in those houses where the broker's requirements have been exceptionally small. It generally works out that the customer is penalized instead of being extended a favor, when the broker allows the customer to carry an account without conservation margin.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—The New York Curb Exchange has adopted regulations regarding margin requirements, reports on pools, joint accounts and syndicates, similar to those recently adopted by the New York Stock Exchange.

CHAPTER XXV.

"We can't allow you to get mixed up in this, Miss Luneska," he said quietly and politely.

Leni, with her whole world in ruins, put a smile on her lips. The smile had nothing whatever to do with what was occurring in her heart.

Her weaker inner self was reeling from the blow. Under the smile her brilliant white teeth were clenched. But she did not speak. She sat entirely motionless, her hands clasped around her soft silken knees, her eyes misted.

"Can't you see, darling, that this is going to be a terrible scandal?" asked Wingate fatuously. "If any of it rubs off on you it will be positively ruinous. Absolutely! I wouldn't dream of letting you blight your career. You mean too much to the screen—far too much to your public!"

You fool, you fool, you fool! Leni wanted to cry aloud. Can't you understand, you idiot, that your talk of admiration and the screen and the public is nothing but stifling smoke rising from the funeral pyre of my dead ambitions? Do you think you can say anything with that loose, funny-looking mouth that could be important to me—or to Lucky Cavanaugh?

Yet, strength and power was coming back to her. From where, Heaven alone knew. It poured into the vacuum of her breast, gathered into a deep and expanding pool of vibrating energy that her heart could take hold and pump through every artery of her body.

LENI IGNORED

Gerstenfield suddenly was ignoring Leni. He picked up the blue covered contract from the table and restored it to the envelope.

"Under the circumstances," he said aridly, "we may not be justified in offering this contract to Miss Luneska. I'll have to take it up with the company."

Leni felt she knew what he was thinking. The value of a motion picture star varied almost from day to day. A breath of scandal reacted directly upon the box office. No other business on earth was like this.

"It doesn't matter at all about the contract," she said to Gerstenfield. "I wasn't going to sign it anyway."

He did not even turn his head to look at her. The commanding power of his eyes drew to a focus that centered upon Ned Wingate.

"Get out!"

Wingate twisted his head with a bird-like motion as though he had not heard aright. "How's that?"

"Get out. I want to talk to Miss Luneska alone . . ."

Wingate's long lips gave a twitch of embarrassment. He was a vain man and would have found it much easier if Gerstenfield had troubled to be just a little polite. As it was, he tried to pass it off as a bit of a joke.

"Right-o! But if she talks you into doubling the salary, old fellow, don't blame me!"

His effort at lightness thudded to the floor. With a bow to Leni and a smile which meant to be humorous to Gerstenfield, he took himself out of the room. At the door he paused.

"I just happened to think," he said. "Hadn't I better see our press department and ask them to soft pedal everything?"

As soon as Leni was alone in the room with Gerstenfield a nameless tension increased perceptibly. He took a step forward. Even before he spoke, the dull lights in his eyes began to glow.

"Now we're alone," he said coolly, "we'll cut out the foolishness."

"Im sorry—there's really nothing for us to talk about, Mr. Gerstenfield. Whatever has happened is my own private affair. It does not concern the studio in the least."

Nevertheless, something was disconcerting her. A mental flow from Gerstenfield kept pressing in on Leni's senses.

"Why do you think I stayed here to talk to you?"

"I don't know," said Leni frankly.

GETS ADVICE

"It's not on account of your contract—I don't give a rap about that—"

"What then?"

Herman Gerstenfield took a step closer. There was nothing about him of charm or good looks. An inconspicuous man with a tired face and dry, neglected hair on an ordinary head. A man to pass unnoticed in a crowd except for the gathered concentration in those dark and glinting eyes.

"I'm interested in just one thing in this whole business," he said levelly. "I'm interested in you. You're not going to get away. You belong. You're one of us. You and I and all of us in this mad business are like a little tribe of people. We stick together. The other people—the outsiders—they are enemies. You can't get away from the pictures even if you wanted to. It's in your blood."

Leni stood up straight and faced him.

"Whatever you say has nothing to do with it," she uttered steadily.

"Don't fool yourself," Gerstenfield returned, holding her with his eyes. "I know more about you than you know about yourself. Whether you realize it or not, you and I are tangled up together. I'm not talking about studio business. I'm talking about you—and me!"

Gerstenfield's words hit hard. They stung her with surprise. She had never dreamed that he was interested in her as a woman. He was standing directly in front of her and she had the sensation that she was close to a bare wire heavily charged with electricity.

"You might as well get ready to wake up!" he declared, a pressure in his voice.

"Please—will you leave me alone?"

"You're going to wake from this illusion that you're in love with that man, Cavanaugh," he said in a whiplash voice. "The trouble with you is you've jumped the track and don't know it. Sit down and listen to me."

Leni found herself obeying him.

Gerstenfield had unleashed something within himself that had changed a cold, mathematical machine into a relentless and pulsating male animal whose newly-revealed personality swept around Leni and threatened every moment to seize command of everything.

ATTITUDE COLD

"If I saw you stumbling into a fatal accident, I'd snatch you back," Gerstenfield said.

His attitude, the flash of his eyes, the snap of his voice, bordered upon the contemptuous. His face had grown paler, his body appeared to have no temperature at all, but Leni had the distinct impression that a white heat seethed inside him.

"You are a woman and therefore are not always in sound mind. Your imagination runs away with you. For a woman like you life is going to be miserable—unless you stay where you belong."

Leni made a forced effort to combat him. Deliberately she lifted her eyebrows, an effort at skeptic[illegible].

"Are you, by any chance, trying to save me from myself?" she inquired with a hauteur that shook a little.

"There's no one else to save you from, except yourself," shot back Gerstenfield. "You have beauty, talent—maybe genius, but no brain. Of yourself you can do nothing. It requires the combined resources of the fourth largest industry to make a place in which you can function. Before you got into the pictures, what kind of a life did you lead?"

Leni could tell from the tingling in her temples that some of the color was leaving her face. This man, she thought, has found out somehow about my past. It gave her a feeling of cold indecency and she wrapped herself in a quick lie.

"Come—be honest! That's not true, is it?"

Without lifting her lids she answered him: "No."

"I knew it was a lie. How? I cannot tell you—I just know. I sense those things. There was something — not pretty. You were out on your own—you bucked the game without our vast machinery behind you. It was an awful business. There's only one place on earth for you—one island of safety. The pictures!"

Leni would have got up and left the room. The instinct to escape, for flight, awakened and she rose to her feet.

"What," she asked in a thin voice, "does all this get us?"

Gerstenfield looked at her and put a hand on her shoulder. It was the first time he had ever touched her. They had never even shaken hands. He pushed her downward, backward into a chair, gently yet definitely.

"Sit there and listen," spoke Gerstenfield. "If you walk out on me you'll walk straight back into your past. I'm telling you and I know."

He might have been stating that two and two make four, so lacking was egotism in his voice.

Synopsis

At the premiere of her latest picture, Leni Luneska, beautiful star, is stunned by the appearance of her criminal husband, Karl Kruger. Lucky Cavanaugh, gambler, who has just seen Leni for the first time, tries to make Kruger leave. Later Cavanaugh goes to see Kruger, waiting in a small office. Kruger rushes away from Cavanaugh and surprises burglars in the next office. One of them shoot him to death. Detective Mulrooney, well acquainted with Cavanaugh, gives him four days to find the killer or be arrested himself. Lucky takes Leni home. Lucky is warned that the killer is after him to prevent him from "squealing." Kruger's murderer lies in wait to kill Lucky. Lucky, arriving home, finds a jealous woman, named Annette, waiting for him. Steve Poletzki, the killer, aims at Lucky through a window and kills Annette by mistake. Next morning, Leni is swamped with congratulatory messages on the premiere. Her success is assured, but more important to her than that is Cavanaugh's love for her. Herman Gerstenfield, noted director, calls. He tries to persuade Leni to sign a new contract.

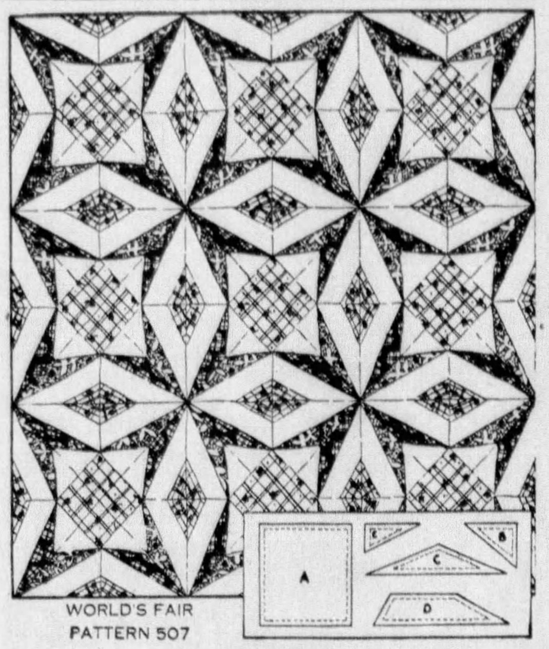
PATCHWORK QUILT PATTERN



By LAURA WHEELER

The old-time patchwork quilt was an heirloom. It was not alone an economy; it was the needlewoman's interpretation of the things in her daily life and of the events of her time. Given such an occasion as the fair at Chicago, she would have made a quilt to commemorate such an outstanding event. So, we today, following the spirit of the needlewoman of old, offer the World Fair—a quilt, which, in generations to come, will call to mind the remarkable exposition we now are having at Chicago. Like the designs of old, it too has its meaning. Diversity of pattern—first you see one design, then it shifts to another—characterizes the variety of interests centered at the exposition. Its outstanding patchwork symbol is the palm—the symbol of the victory over obstacles necessary to assure us A Century of Progress. The simplicity of the pattern can be seen from the illustration of the pattern pieces.

Pattern 507 comes to you with complete, simple instructions for cutting, sewing and finishing, together with yardage chart, diagram of quilt to help arrange the blocks for single and double bed size, and a diagram of block which serves as a guide for placing the patches and suggests contrasting materials.

Send 10c for this pattern to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth avenue, New York City.

The Junior Patrol Mail Box

August is vacation month, Fellows!

We have heard from many Junior Patrol members telling us that they and their families are going to go to the mountains or the seashore or maybe travel over the country.

You know lots of people get on a ship and go off to Europe or Asia for a vacation, or even around the world. But the big majority stay right here in this country—there's more right here than any one man could see in a lifetime of looking.

Maybe some of you have been to one of the great national parks—Yellowstone, Glacier, Yosemite, Sequoia—and others. If you have, Junior would like to hear about it; write and tell him what you saw, and what adventures you had.

But most fellows, we know, will just go to camp or to a summer home for a vacation. Especially, if you go camping, we think you ought to read the safety and health rules which the American Red Cross has published, and right here they are:

3—Heed traffic rules (if you are hiking along the highway).

7—Learn to recognize poison ivy so you can stay away from it. (It's a green vine with the leaves in clusters of three, pointed.)

8—If a copperhead, water mocassin or rattlesnake bites you, treat the wound quickly. Apply a torniquet two or three inches above the bite. Make an x-shaped cut about one-half inch long entirely through the skin at the site of each fang mark; apply suction continuously for half an hour; give aromatic spirits of ammonia or coffee for stimulant, and get a doctor as quickly as possible.

There's a letter today from Margaret P. Hucko, of 355 Noyloi street, Pittsburgh. Margaret writes:

"Just writing you a few words to ask you if I could be captain and organize a chapter, because I have 10 or more girls that have membership cards."

Fine, Margaret—just send us your membership role of 10 or more names, the time of your meetings, and if you have been elected captain we will send you the black and orange captain's armband.

And here is a mighty pleasant letter from Dora Noble, of 710 Church street, Turtle Creek, Pa. She writes:

"I wonder if you would please send me another membership card and official emblem on account of breaking my official emblem and losing my membership card, which I misplaced. I like to wear my pin and I try as hard as I can to encourage my playmates to get a pin to wear."

"I enclose my broken pin for you to see that I am not telling a lie."

That's mighty fine and honest of you, Dora. Of course, we will be glad to send you another button and card, especially since you sent another pledge slip with your request.

Mary Siciliano, of 6504 Deary street, has a club with nine members but she only sent one pledge. If she will send a roll of her members, and the notice that she has been elected Captain, she will be entitled to an armband, since she has 10 in her club counting herself.

There will be some interest-in letters tomorrow! Look for them!

JUNIOR PATROL PLEDGE

I promise to help children less fortunate than I am,
I promise to do my best to make my parents proud of me.
I promise to watch carefully when crossing streets and to aid other children in keeping out of danger.

Date of Birth.....Address.....

School .....

Address this pledge to the JUNIOR PATROL Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa. Upon its receipt you will be registered as a member of the JUNIOR PATROL and will be forwarded a membership card and an official emblem.

Nearly everybody that read the paper, Monday, observed in the story of the Davis boys who were arrested for having the still, it said one of them was married and his 19-year-old wife had a 14-year-old baby. Some baby and some wife! Of course it ought to have been a 14-months'-old baby. Such mistakes are more or less embarrassing to the paper. Mrs. Frisby Snarls Back at Beast—Man

WASHINGTON—Mrs. Horace Frisby posed in her wedding gown today in a downtown drug store window as a protest against the publicity that has been given to her domestic difficulties with Congressman Frisby. Crowds were puzzled by the fact that she held in one hand a bottle marked "Roach Poison," while in the other she clasped a letter which she says she found in Frisby's pocket. When asked to explain the meaning of this enigmatic gesture, Mrs. Frisby merely curled her lip and jiggled her upper plate. "I give him twenty-three of the best years of my life," Mrs. Frisby wrote on a slate provided for the purpose, "and what do I get?" Then she penciled, in large letters, the words, "Pale Pills For Pink People." It is understood that all the money paid to Mrs. Frisby for her endorsement will go to the Mrs. Frisby Defense Fund, Inc.

Business Is Picking Up

Bugs Baer

Young Postmaster Willing to Be Democrat

Yet, they had an enjoyable reprieve while Postmaster Jim held up patronage longer than the ques on all the marching Chinese.

Jim is now staking life long and life longing Demmies to jobs in the junior postoffice shells, nooks and crannies.

You have to be a loyal Jeffersonian to grab a brass ring. The writer will tabulate his services to the organization in the hope of becoming a third-class postcard reader.

Was present at the Baltimore convention which nominated Wilson. Also at the San Francisco affair, but forget who was nominated. So did everybody else.

There in Chicago in 1924 when Rube Goldberg roomed with William Jennings Bryan. Ate as many hot dogs as anybody in Madison Square Garden. Played golf with Max Steuer and Jimmy Walker in Houston during a heat wave that didn't reach the boiling point until 1933.

Back in Chicago again last year listening to the same speeches that we heard 20 years ago. Our record goes back to the time when a frankfurter was a victory dinner.

Have wrestled with Ring Lardner in a waffle palace on the Barbery Coast. Attended a dinner to Damon Runyon in San Francisco and slept two nights on a round table curled up like an anchovy. Followed Bryan to the Dayton monkey trial with Darrow and Dudley Field Malone.

Have interviewed thousands of politicians who were prominent candidates until the votes were counted. We are willing to start at the bottom and work our way through the registered packages.

The only thing we know about stamps is that postcards are cheaper. If there is a vacancy next to a filling station in the West we will oil up the thumb and start hitch-hiking.

In case we don't hear from Jim we will go back to our job of being a Philadelphia Republican. We will consider a postoffice in Guam, but will refuse a mail car on the Death Valley spur of the Sante Fe.

Pan-American Trade

President Roosevelt Is Approaching the Reciprocity Problem in a Practical Spirit.

President Roosevelt has given new evidence of his sincere interest in Pan-American reciprocity by the advice he is reported to have given Secretary of State Hull to "lay off" his World Economic Conference obsessions and direct his energies to the subject of new trade alliances with Latin America.

The President was in a position to disclose to his Secretary of State that, during the latter's absence, conversations had been initiated with Argentina, Brazil and Colombia and as a result of the State Department's studies, bi-lateral treaties were being formulated containing reciprocal concessions of mutual benefit to the United States and the other nations with which such treaties were proposed.

It is gratifying to learn that time has not been wasted and that Acting Secretary Phillips and the diplomatic representatives of the three South American countries above named have made substantial progress in the preparation of data necessary for formal negotiations.

This is the only way in which the delicate program of international reciprocity can be carried forward. First, personal contacts marked by candor and good will. Then, discussions confined to the restricted area of concessions that are feasible and exchanges of productions that are practicable, bearing in mind the policies and the interests of each nation involved.

The process is one which requires infinite patience and genuine good-will. It is a task worthy of the highest statesmanship, both economic and political. It presupposes not only a broad treatment of the problems involved, but their minute and intelligent study.

As was remarked last January, in discussing this subject:

That President Roosevelt is regarded as approaching the problem of Pan-American reciprocity in a spirit that is practical and promises results, is recognized in Europe, which has for many years taken full advantage of America's neglect of this great field, although it is logically so much more hers than Europe's.

There is a noticeable intensification of the drive to establish the jurisdiction of the League of Nations more firmly in dealing with South American problems, such as the Gran Chaco and the Letitia incident.

In addition there is an observable quickening of the campaigns long conducted by Great Britain and France for the development of commercial, cultural and other ties with Latin America at the expense of the United States.

Europe's jealousy of our new interest in this field is further evidenced in the comment of a Paris newspaper, whose words are a significant tribute to the very practical way in which President Roosevelt is going at this problem.

"Pan-American conferences," says the Paris Midi, "are habitually agreeable reunions where are discussed topics of a vague and platonic sort. Roosevelt has decided to change all that and has obtained assurances of co-operation from six South American nations."

The commercial future of the United States is primarily in the Western Hemisphere.

At last we have an enlightened administration in Washington which is able not only to perceive this truth, but to act upon it with intelligence and energy.

So long as we proceed in a spirit of give and take and treat our sister nations with the same measure of consideration which we expect, Pan-American reciprocity will steadily advance toward a happy realization.

Make It A-1-A

The County Airport Should Be Made a First-Class One, Even If It Does Cost More.

The taxpayers were deceived as to the cost of the County Airport. Again and again it has been necessary to supplement the original appropriation. When County Commissioner C. C. McGovern was the minority member of the board he called the airport job a "bungle."

Now comes notice that another supplementary expenditure, comparatively small this time, will be necessary if the airport is to acquire the government's A-1-A rating, given only to first-class aviation harbors. Thirty additional acres must be bought and three runways extended to a length of 2,500 feet.

If it were possible to question the taxpayers, most, no doubt, would make a grimace and say to go ahead. Having put our hand to the plow, we will complete the furrow.

The New Pitt Alumni Association Does Not Have to Look Far for a Worth While Job.

The announcement is made that the General Alumni Association of the University of Pittsburgh, defunct for three years, has been reorganized. Officers have been chosen and steps taken to recruit members.

Splendid! The university has 20,000 living alumni, and there is no good reason why a strong virile association should not be developed which not only will render valuable service to the alma mater, but also to the community.

The association will not have to look far for a job worthy of its mettle. Let it exert itself to get the Cathedral of Learning finished. The naked skeleton of the lower floors is becoming an eyesore.

Guarding City Property

Mayor Herron Deserves Credit for Taking Steps to Prevent Defacement of Walls.

Mayor John S. Herron is doing no more than his duty, of course, in ordering the arrest of persons found defacing city property by painting signs on it or posting bills. But it is a duty that has been performed in so perfunctory a manner in other years—often after the harm had been done—that the Mayor deserves credit for being prompt and emphatic in his warning.

The admonition is directed to candidates for political office who may be tempted to advertise their candidacy through signs and bills. Several years ago certain of the candidates went to utterly indefensible extremes, painting their solicitation for votes on the pavement of the boulevards and on bridges. Some of the signs have not been erased yet.

Mayor Herron is to be commended for moving energetically to prevent such vandalism in the present campaign.

Glimpses—At Forty

This column seldom quotes from letters—but the following "glimpses of life at forty," submitted by Eva Fox, of Hollywood, make such interesting (if cynical) reading, that I consider her reflections well worth quoting.

* * *

At twenty, we are leery of the guy who professes his love, demands everything, but says nothing about marriage. At forty, we are more suspicious of the man who proposes marriage, wants everything—but says nothing about LOVE.

* * *

Forty is the age when a woman worries half the time for fear of losing her gigolo—and the other half for fear she won't be able to get rid of him.

At forty, when a man gazes at you intently, you wonder whether he is registering interest — or merely counting the crowsfeet and those fine lines under the eyes.

* * *

Don't kid yourself into believing it's LOVE when you have that yearning to "look after" a man. It's just your mother-instinct manifesting itself—wanting to take care of little boys. (And I never realized that!)

* * *

It isn't always love that prompts a man to seek the coziness of your apartment. Sometimes it's merely hunger for home-cooking and the need of a place in which to relax and recuperate before starting out on the next adventure.

There is just one martyrdom harder to endure than the attentions of a man you don't like, who persists in mauling you—and that is the inattention of a man you DO like who forgets to kiss you.

* * *

Kick a cat or a man out of the front door and he will saunter serenely around to the back door and wait to be let in.

* * *

The foregoing have been slightly changed and edited, but, in the main, they are as submitted. Thanks, Miss Fox. But—you are a bit more cynical than I am. I had to run two or three of these through the wringer to make them soft enough to swallow.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Manhattan's gold rush is not confined to jobless hitch-hiking west in the hope of eking a bare living. Investigators include responsible importants in many callings. Bernard Gimbel, of the department store, Gene Tunney and Eddie Dowling of the theater.

Such swanky resorts as Southampton, Newport and Tuxedo Park have several social lights who journeyed incognito to stake out claims in sundry fields whispering of strikes. Cobina Wright's husband Bill, both in society, is prospecting in New Mexico to recoup market losses.

A large sporting goods house has a department specializing in outfits for city-bred prospectors. Everything on a grand scale for those who believe there is gold in "them thar hills." Private classes for instruction in rudimentary geology have many Social Registerites.

There is a theory Wall Street will not provide a means of quick fortune for years. Discovering a gold lode appears the only way for a sudden financial come-back. Thus many have deserted flannels and the veranda for high-hipped boots, leather jerkin and the placer pan.

A barber on Clinton street named Pecora quickly capitalized the publicity value of his namesake Ferdinand Pecora. A window card reads: "D. Pecora, barber. Let us investigate your scalp!"

* * *

New York has 400,000 men and women who sleep by day and work by night that the rest of us may eat new bread for breakfast, drink fresh milk, read newspapers and, perhaps, slide certain letters under the clock before beginning the day. They sleep in hushed homes with blinds down and are busiest when most of us are dead to the world. I am told that once attuned to night work few want to give it up.

* * *

Night, too, brings out its human miscellany that fades with dawn. The tottering old lady with a tray of shoe laces, the rachitic fellow with one myoptic eye and many matches, the white-haired patriarch with packets of needles, etc. All trying to appeal to mankind in its most expansive moments. And with perpetually wilted expressions taking the current of kindness as it comes.

They chirp along the Rialto that George Jean Nathan's bleats about Noel Coward's "Design for Living" were because the play was dedicated to Alexander Woollcott, Nathan's ancient enemy. In a particular Sutton Place set Coward and Woollcott are known as Noey-woey and Ackey-wacky.

For a prowler no stretch of Manhattan is so engaging as that below Fulton after 5 p. m. A brooding magnificence about the enormous towers that inspires reflection. Except the shirt-sleeved night watches the district is desolated. Furious daylight hurry has drained out. A pert stenographer, kept late at the office, may scurry to a subway but that is all. And for an engaging view of the city gaze up Wall Street at the silhouette of Trinity's thin black pencil spire as the sun sinks.

Lunching at Dewey's on Fulton street one day, a man with white-tipped sideburns and cnormous red nose hurried through to a table behind a screen. This flash was my only view of the elder J. P. Morgan.

That evening I post-carded my father: "Lunched in same place with J. P. Morgan today." And the local weekly, mixing it up, had a first page caption: "Local Boy Morgan's Luncheon Guest."

How often have you said you'd like to write a column like this, and bet you could do a pretty good one—a better one, maybe, than that Robinson woman?

All right; here's your chance to tell how it should be done. Just answer these questions, send 'em along, and we'll try to fill the order. First—

DO YOU LIKE THIS COLUMN? READ IT REGULARLY?

If so, why?

DO YOU DISLIKE THIS COLUMN? READ IT SELDOM?

How'd you change it?

WOULD YOU MAKE IT LONGER OR SHORTER?

SWEETER OR SNAPPIER?

What sort of articles do you like?

ARTICLES THAT MAKE YOU SIGH?

OR ARTICLES THAT MAKE YOU SNORT?

Do you want more discussions of current news?

More spit-balls at the Big Shots?

Or do you like home stuff best?

Talk about the Dear Old Days?

Advice to Mammas, Papas, Newly-weds?

AND HOW ABOUT ALL THIS SLANG?

Do you believe in writing Regular American?

Or should we speak sweet and low about everything?

And just choose Nice, Clean, Comfortable Topics That Never Hurt Anybody's Feelings?

Or do they bore you?

OR DO YOU LIKE, BEST OF ALL, TALKS ABOUT YOU, YOURSELF?

AND THEN THERE'S RELIGION.

Not church stuff, but you-and-life stuff.

Do you like that?

Do you like to read the prayers you might have said?

Like to see words reaching toward a God you'd like to find?

Or does all that "get your goat?"

Come on. Tell me!

And when you've done that, tell me some more.

OUR RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis.

Fetters

These are the things which bind me:
Deeds I will not forget,
And days long left behind me
Through which I journey yet,
A score of treasured letters,
Grown yellow now with years;
These are the steel-strong fetters
To which I cling with tears.

These fetters I have fashioned
To bar my life from bliss:
A vanished hour, impassioned,
An unforgotten kiss.
If I should rise tomorrow
And cast them all away,
The sweet and secret sorrow,
the name I never say,
Then prouder, braver, better
My life would flow at last,
If I should lose each fetter
I fashion from the past.

The Human Side of the News

Doubts Raised as to the Deaths of Kreuger, Booth, Lowenstein and Ney—Basis for Belief Ney Escaped

By EDWIN C. HILL

STRANGE, how the rumor persists that Ivar Kreuger, arch-swindler of modern times, did not shoot himself, but is in hiding, with stolen millions, somewhere in the Far East. All history is clouded with such doubts of an earthly end. Some of these doubts have ripened into hard and fast legends. And the Kreuger legend will take its place in history, likely, with the tale that John Wilkes Booth, Lincoln's assassin, was not slain in a Virginia barn but lived to old age in Oklahoma.

Dr. Clarence True Wilson, dry leader, is one of those, I believe, who is convinced of the truth of the Booth legend.

Then there is the recent fantastical story that Capt. Albert Lowenstein, the Belgian financial magnate, did not perish when he fell or leaped from an airplane over the English Channel. The chances are a thousand to one—a million to one—against any of these fascinating yarns being true.

But there is one belief that will not down, one indeed, which is supported by some extraordinary facts, and a stack of affidavits made by the most reputable persons of an entire community. And that is the belief that the famous Marshal Ney, greatest of Napoleon's generals, was not executed by a firing squad of King Louis XVIII, but escaped to the United States and lived out his life as a school teacher in North Carolina, and died in bed at the age of 77. Just the other day this writer assembled the known facts in the case of Peter Stewart Ney—call him Marshall Ney, if you like—and looked over a sheaf of affidavits sent from North Carolina—affidavits startling in their sincerity and in their unescapable implications.

* * *

Peter Ney Lands in America

HISTORY tells us that Michael Ney, Marshal of France, condemned by the Council of Peers, was taken to the place of execution in Paris on the morning of December 7, 1815. The marshal walked calmly to the spot of execution. He refused to have his eyes bandaged. With his two hands upon his breast he cried out:

"Soldiers, straight to the heart! Vive la France! Fire!"

There was an instant crash of musketry and the marshal's body slumped to the ground. Almost immediately it was whispered through Paris that the execution squad had fired over Marshal Ney's head and that he had been smuggled out of France by powerful friends, of whom the English Duke of Wellington, his foeman in battle, was one.

Fourteen days after the day of execution a seaman aboard a ship bound from Bordeaux to Charleston, S. C., recognized upon the quarterdeck the face and figure of the general he had served under. Certain it is that one Peter Stewart Ney landed in Charleston on January 29, 1816, 52 days after the reported execution. For three and a half years this mysterious exile lived in the closest retirement. Then he emerged to be a school teacher for the next 27 years, and to make friends with the best known citizens of the community, all of whom convinced themselves by a long array of facts that the schoolmaster was none other than the great marshal.

He was in his schoolroom in 1821 when a newspaper, brought to him by one of his pupils, announced the death on the Island of St. Helena of the Emperor Napoleon. Ney read the account, turned deathly pale and fell senseless to the floor. That night he burned all of his papers and tried to commit suicide. He said to one of his friends, after he had been revived:

"With the death of Napoleon my last hope is gone!"

King Louis Phillipe made a curious comment to an American years after this incident. The King remarked:

"You and I are both Masons of high degree. So was Marshal Ney."

"Mr. Ney," said Dr. Locke, according to an affidavit read by this writer, "you have but a short time to live. We would like to know from your own lips who you are before you die."

Asserts He Is The Marshal

"I am Marshal Ney of France."

Those were the last words that passed his lips. Could a man of such unblemished honor lie down to die with a smile upon his lips? Never before had he proclaimed himself the great marshal of Napoleon. It was only when he felt upon his brow the chill touch of the Dark Angel, when all earthly things are fading, and only truth remained, that he said: "I am Marshal Ney." . . . In the ancient cemetery of Pere la Chaise, in Paris, where lovely old trees sweep the very ground with their mournful draperies, and foliage and flowers make a place not so much of grief and sorrow as of beauty and peace, I sought one day for the tomb of Marshal Ney.

It was a long time before I could come upon it, for I paused to raise my hat at the tomb of Sarah Bernhardt and to stand for a long time before the loveliest object in all that garden of sleep, two sculptured figures, high upraised upon a pedestal and carved in the purest marble—a young girl and a young man, almost taking wing. She is caught in his sheltering arms. Her face is upturned to his. The finely chiseled features are resplendent with love and tenderness. The evening shadows falling over Pere of Chaise brought into gentle relief the faces of the teacher, Abelard, of his pupil, Heloise.

And presently, to the right of these noble figures, I read a great name carved in bold relief upon white stone:

"To the memory of Michael Ney, Prince of Messina and of Moskowa, Duke of Elghingen and Hero of the Beresina." . . .

And my thoughts went across the sea to the rustic churchyard of Third Creek Church, a little way from Salisbury, North Carolina. For in that churchyard, is a rude stone bearing this simple inscription:

"In Memory of a Native of France, and a Soldier of the French Revolution under Napoleon Bonaparte, who Departed This Life November 15, 1846, Aged Seventy-seven Years."

The simple stone marks the last resting place of the country schoolmaster, Peter Stewart Ney. And I cannot help but think that the little stone in the North Carolina churchyard marks the true resting place of the great gentleman and great soldier who followed the star of Napoleon and the Eagles of France until the one was extinguished and the wings of the other lay broken in the dust.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

Just because it may not be financially possible for you to pursue your favorite sport this summer, don't become a squatter, and do nothing in the way of exercise.

In past years you have hired the help needed to keep up your place.

Why not do the work yourself this year and gain the health from out-of-door exercise right there at home on your own land?

To be sure you won't have your old cronies with you.

But you can get the physical well being that the fresh air affords, and possibly entertain a bit with a dinner occasionally where you serve your own produce, and that is an achievement.

Don't spend your leisure in a stuffy room where others are smoking in an effort to appear sociable—not in summer time.

That poker game may not be so bad in winter time but in summer it is a crime to waste time over the cards when there is fresh or salt water bathing or even long walks in the woods or the sunshine.
